Landfill operation improves

An inspection of the Scott County sanitary landfill near Morley Tuesday afternoon indicated an improvement in operation since an Aug. 12 inspection. The top picture shows refuse as it appears after being dumped during the day, and the bottom photograph shows the landfill after the refuse is covered at the end of the day.

Independents drop gas prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Independent gasoline stations are dropping pump prices as much as 13 cents a gallon, cutting into sales of many higher-priced, major brand dealers, an Associated Press survey shows.

"There's definitely some easing of price all around, especially in the wholesale price available to independents," says Dan Lundberg of the Lundberg Survey of national retail gasoline prices.

"Two months ago, the market for independent gasoline had almost dried up, but now it's open again," says a spokesman for the St. Louis-based Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers.

"Independent refiners who sell to the independent retailers are getting more imported crude and more of the cheaper domestic crude which the majors have to sell off out of their inventories through the (federal) allocation system."

"As a result, the independents' price has dropped 4 to 5 cents a gallon generally, and they're passing it along to the customer. Some independents are going one step further and cutting their profit margins down to build up the sales volume they lost to the majors during the gasoline shortage."

Industry gasoline supply figures indicate that there is more of the fuel in stock this year than the same time last year, but demand is holding about even with last year's level. This means that the majors are having trouble selling all their gasoline through their own outlets.

Many dealers say the increased supply of gasoline has come from conservation by motorists. But some dealers say the major oil companies are purposely holding prices at high levels to boost their profits. This has acted as a deterrent to retail sales, which helps supplies but hurts business, they say.

"I guess they're more concerned with their stockholders than they are about their dealers and their customers," says a Phillips Petroleum dealer in Topeka, Kan.

In Louisiana, where independents have cut prices about five cents a gallon this summer, Exxon dealer Munroe Reed of New Orleans says, "Their lower prices are hurting me and brand dealers like me."

Reed says he and other Exxon dealers have complained for a month to Exxon to lower prices in their area but have seen no results.

Gasoline in Charlotte, N.C., is down 13 cents a gallon from its peak and is selling at 45.7 cents a gallon at independent stations. Major brands are still selling at 58.7 cents a gallon.

Exxon dealer James Robinson of Charlotte complains that his sales are down 25 per cent as customers desert him for lower priced gas. He says Exxon has suggested he stay open longer to try to sell more gas, but the company won't cut prices.

Ohio dealers report price skirmishes between offbrand dealers in Detroit and Cincinnati, but major brands aren't lowering their prices.

In New Hampshire, station owners in Manchester say competition has reduced prices to 50.9 cents a gallon from 56 cents.

And in Chicago, where prices vary as much as eight cents a gallon, some stations are advertising car wash deals or soap or candy with gas.

Royalty contests, parades headline Madrid festival

NEW MADRID — Three royalty contests and two parades headline the entertainment for the week-long 15th annual American Legion Fall Festival scheduled to open Sept. 30 and continue through Oct. 5, according to Mack Cravens, commander of Brown- Twitty Post 595.

Also, in conjunction with the festival, a brief program for presentation of a Bicentennial flag and recognition of New Madrid as a Bicentennial city by officials of the state Bicentennial Commission is planned.

Leading off festival activities will be the opening of a carnival midway providing numerous rides and concessions. The midway will be erected along Mill Street in the downtown area and will operate each night during the festival.

Little Mr. American Legion and Little Miss American Legion of 1974-75 will be chosen in a contest for 4 and 5 - year - olds on Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. The contest is sponsored by Iota Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and will be staged at the New Madrid County R-1 Vocational - Technical School on Highway 61 South.

Contestants may register with Kay Kimes, telephone number 643-2163, or Joy Hendricks, 748-5135.

A kiddie parade, which draws a large crowd of spectators and entries annually, is slated for 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 4. Bicycles will be awarded to the most unusual entry and to the best entry in the parade.

Cash awards will be presented to ffrst, second and third place winners in various divisions, which include miniature floats, decorated bikes, pets, clowns and television characters.

Entries should assemble at the courthouse parking lot by 7 p.m. to be numbered and placed in the proper category. Ralph Higgerson is chairman of the event.

A new event added to this year's festival is contest to select a Junior Miss from 13, 14 and 15- year - old contestants.

The contest will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 5. Candidates are to assemble at 6:30 p.m. in the Bank of New Madrid community room for personal interviews. Entries will then appear in evening gowns on stage on Main Street for final judging and the coronation ceremony.

The winner will receive a $25 savings bond and a trophy. First and second alternates will be presented trophies.

A small entry fee is required. Contestants may register with Mrs. Barbara Jones, chairman, whose telephone number is 748-2119, or Ben Ashley at Security Abstract Co., 305 Main St., telephone number 748-2372.

Special events scheduled the following night on Main Street include a program for the presentation of a Bicentennial flag to the city, followed by the coronation of Miss American Legion of 1974-75.

The New Madrid Bicentennial Commission is in charge of a program set for 7:30 p.m. in which representatives of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Missouri will recognize New Madrid as a participating Bicentennial city commemorating the 200th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Immediately following that program, the Miss American Legion beauty contest will begin. The contest is open to single girls 16 to 20 years old. Candidates may be sponsored free of charge by a business firm, organization or individual that has advertised in the fall festival booklet. Otherwise, an entry fee will be charged the sponsor.

The winner will be awarded a diamond dinner ring, and $50 and $25 savings bonds will be presented to the first and second

Landfill improvements cited; more work needed

BENTON — "A tremendous improvement has been made at the Scott County sanitary landfill site since the Aug. 12 inspection," according to Jim Huck of Poplar Bluff, a district representative of the Missouri Division of Health who conducted a followup inspection of the landfill Tuesday afternoon.

Although the County Court is doing a good job of improving conditions of the land fill, Huck said several more steps needed to be taken before the landfill will meet state requirements for approval.

Huck said proper drainage ditches have not been constructed, the wet weather area has not been prepared and sanitary facilities have not been set up for workers at the landfill. "These are just a few of the minor items which need to be corrected," he added.

The Missouri Division of Health informed the County Court on Aug. 13 that unless the landfill met state requirements within a reasonable period of time, it would be closed. The warning was issued after state officials accompanied members of the County Court to the landfill site and determined that it was being improperly operated.

"I am glad the County Court has taken an interest in the situation and has it under control," said Huck.

Huck said he wished other counties would cooperate to the extent that the Scott County Court has given. "I think the whole situation was just a misunderstanding and, now that the judges understand what a sanitary landfill is, we will not have any more problems," he said.

According to Huck, a timetable for the remaining problems to be corrected at the landfill will be set up later.

Huck said the County Court has indicated it may submit another application to the Missouri Division of Health for approval.

"This will include just a few amendments to the original plan," he said.

11 injured in traffic accidents

A Caruthersville woman was seriously injured and 10 other persons received minor injuries in four area traffic accidents reported by the highway patrol today.

Mary Gentry, 41, received serious injuries in a two-car accident at 11 a.m. Wednesday on a county road two miles southeast of Caruthersville.

The patrol reported that the accident occured at an unmarked intersection when a westbound truck driven by Gilbert Dixon, 29, of Hayti struck on the right side of the northbound pickup truck driven by the woman.

Three passengers in the pickup, Helen Wells, 19, Kathy Rudd, 21, and Nathan Rudd, 2 of Caruthersville, received minor injuries.

All four injured persons were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital at Hayti.

Two Memphis, Tenn., residents were injured in a one-car accident which occurred at 11 a.m. Wednesday on Highway 60 one-half mile east of Charleston when the driver, William Lewis Cody, 24, lost control after the vehicle ran onto the shoulder.

Cody and a passenger, Betty Ann Cody, 24, sustained minor injuries and were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Three persons suffered minor injuries at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday when a car struck a cow on Highway 61 five miles south of Sikeston.

The highway patrol reported the cow was standing in the northbound lane of the highway and was struck and killed by a northbound car driven by Lewis Montjoy, 21, of Sikeston.

Injured were Montjoy and two passengers, Randal Echols, 19, of Sikeston and Russell Montjoy, 18, of Sikeston, who were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Elderly man kills himself

BRAGG CITY — Jackson Conley Sr., 76, of Route Two committed suicide at 2:20 a.m. today by self-inflicted shotgun wounds, Pemiscot County Coroner Jimmy Dean and Sheriff Thad Shelly have ruled.

The body was discovered by Conley's son, Jackson Conley Jr., in a bedroom of his home in a wheelchair.

Shelly said Conley reportedly got into his wheelchair and went through the bedroom and the living room to get the gun. The son heard his father moving around, but thought it was his mother, Shelly said.

After hearing the shot and finding his father's body, the son called the sheriff's office at 2:53 a.m.

The body was taken to Carter's Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

Home repairs order of the day

Home improvement is the order of the day in Scott County.

Because of the high cost of new housing. the scarcity of mortgage money and economic conditions in general, many local families who had been thinking about buying new homes have apparently given up the idea for the present and are turning, instead, to sprucing up their present ones.

As a result, they have been putting a record amount of money into alterations, additions and repairs.

The figures indicate that their expenditures for such purposes came to a total of $3,622,000 in the past year. This is distinct from their normal month-to- month operating expenses.

The estimate is based upon sampling surveys that were conducted in all parts of the country by the Department of Commerce and upon data from industry sources.

The finding is that the average amount spent by home-owners in Scott County's regional area during the year for upkeep and improvement was approximately $341 per dwelling unit, as against $366 nationally. In 1970, by way of comparison, only $291 was so-spent locally. Part of the increase was due to inflation.

For some homeowners -- those who went in for major repairs and improvements -- the outlay ran much higher than average. Others, who may have done considerable overhauling a year or two earlier, did little this time.

Nationally, the Department of Commerce reports, no less than $18.9 billion was expended in the past year for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties. This was $1.4 billion more than in the prior year.

As for property owners in Scott County, how did they spend their $3,622,000 portion of this total?

In general, a breakdown of the overall figures shows, about 57 percent of the expenditures was for additions, alterations and major replacements.

The other 43 per cent was for maintenance and repairs. By far, the biggest item in this category was house painting, interior and exterior. It was followed by plumbing, roofing, heating and air conditioning.

Harris pleads guilty

BENTON — Jim Harris, 47, of Sikeston pleaded guilty today in Circuit Court to a reduced charge of manslaughter in connection with the March 27 shooting death of Enoch Simmons, 29, of 1917 W. North St., for which he had originally been charged with first- degree murder.

Judge Marshall Craig referred Harris to the State Department of Probation and Parole for a pre- sentence investigation and ordered him to return to court on Oct. 24 for sentencing.

Harris, who remains free on a $10,000 appearance bond, reportedly shot Simmons three times following an argument at Harris's Cafe at 201 Luther St. Simmons was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

MORE REASONS TO
RHODESIAN CHROME

Among the more controversial statements of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is his declaration that "... the Byrd provision is not essential to our national security, brings no real economic advantage, and is costly in our conduct of foreign relations." Mr. Kissinger was referring to the Byrd amendment to our military procurement bill of 1971 providing for direct U. S. purchase of Rhodesian chrome, despite the United Nations- inspired boycott. There is much evidence to show that Mr. Kissinger is wrong, especially insofar as the economic penalty to be suffered by the American people, should the ban be reinstated.

The United States produces no chromium; yet, we consume one-fifth of all the world's production of this critical metal. Rhodesia is our third largest foreign source. In addition, our demand for chrome has increased greatly, jumping 23 per cent last year alone. When the original ban was imposed in 1967, we became dependent upon the Soviet Union for chrome, and the response of the Reds was to increase the price to us by 70 percent. A worldwide shortage has pushed prices up 150 per cent this year alone.

"Repealing the Byrd amendment," says Fred B. O'Mara, executive Vice President of Union Carbide Corp., "would send chrome prices skyrocketing and aggravate our nation's already serious inflation." Business Week magazine states flatly that "the price will go through the roof if the U. S. slams the door on Rhodesian imports." And Ira L. Friedman, executive Vice President of a metal powders producing firm, points out that if the embargo is reimposed, U.S. consumers will still buy Rhodesian chrome — "through third parties at double or triple the current price."

Who will pay for it? You will — in every automobile, washing machine, refrigerator, bicycle, or piece of stainless steel you buy.

If Congress has any mercy for the citizen's pocketbook, the call by Mr. Kissinger for a ban on Rhodesian chrome will be rejected.

THE ULTIMATE BREAKTHROUGH

WASHINGTON -- Several weeks ago I wrote about how the supermarkets raise the prices on their cans and boxes so fast that sometimes there are two or three changes in the cost of an item before you get to the parking lot. I pointed out that some supermarkets actually have stock boys chasing your cart down the aisles stamping your packages before you get to the counter, while other stores have their clerks hidden in ambush behind the stacks of Ritz crackers.

But my friend Joe Krell revealed the latest in grocery price warfare the other day. He called me up and asked me to come over, explaining he couldn't talk on the phone. When he opened the door he looked like a nervous wreck.

"Let's walk outside," he said, "the house could be bugged."

We strolled down the street. "Something's happening," he said. "The other day I bought a can of tuna. It was marked 55 cents. I carried it home and put it in the food closet. When I took it out the next day it was marked 63 cents. I thought I had made a mistake in the original price, but to be certain I put it back in the closet. The next day the price on the can read 70 cents."

Now I must say Krell is a very sober fellow and to my knowledge would not make something like this up. He obviously had gotten several cans of tuna mixed up. I suggested this but he shook his head. "No way. This mornint I took out the can and it said 2/$1.50. I'm telling you something's fishy about this."

Krell told me at first he thought it was just the tuna can, but to make sure he started checking other grocery items on his shelves. Sure enough they increased by 2 or 3 cents a day. "Even the stuff I put in the freezer changed price overnight. I bought some steak for $2.50 a pound -- the next night, when I took it out to thaw it, it was marked $3.25."

I thought about it. Krell probably was suffering from some sort of hallucination brought about by exorbitant food prices, but at the same time the situation was worth investigating.

We sought out Thurston Craven, a friend who works as a chemist for the government on-top-secret work. When we told him the story he whistled. "It sounds like they've made a breakthrough on the APPS."

"APPS?" I queried.

"Auto- Progressive Price Stamping. It's the ultimate weapon in price- marking techniques," Craven said. "We knew the supermarkets have been doing research in this field for some time. There has been so much human error in marking cans and boxes and packages that they've had a crash program to find ways for the prices to change themselves. But we didn't expect them to develop anything like it until 1979."

Craven asked Krell to bring over the can of tuna. By the time Krell returned and gave it to Craven, the can was marked "Special $1.20."

Craven put it under his microscope. "Hmmnn." he said, "just as I thought. It's on a laser-beam cycle. You see the ultraviolet ink which disappears and reappears according to the intensity of light.

"All the super market has to do is set the laser on a cycle and the price will go up progressively any amount the store wants.

"The only mystery for me is that the prices should only change in the store. They shouldn't keep changing in Krell's closet and freezer. Let me ask you this, Krell. Do you have a television set in the kitchen?"

"Yes, of course," said Krell.

"Well, that explains it," said Craven. "The cathode tube is having the same effect on the marked prices as a laser beam. I would suggest you take the TV out of the kitchen."

Craven added, "And one more thing, Krell. I wouldn't talk to anyone about this. If the supermarkets find out you know about Auto- Progressive Price Stamping, your life won't be worth a 1-cent ham- hock sale."

MISSES AIM

If President Ford wanted to further domestic tranquility in granting a full, free and absolute pardon to Richard M. Nixon, he has failed to achieve his aim.

Instead of moving Watergate onto the far back burner he instead turned the gas full blast.

There are too many contradictions in his action.

1.--Nixon had not been indicted, tried or convicted for any offense. Further, the former president, in public statements, has never admitted to any offense. Rather, he refers to "mistakes" he may have made.

2.--And while their leader goes free of any lawbreaking he may have done while president, droves of his appointees are serving time, under indictment, or have served sentences on charges for which Nixon is now completely cleared.

3.--One of the divisions tearing at our system is a belief that the big boys don't get the same justice as the little guy. President Ford's amnesty for Nixon isn't going to mend that wound.

4.--Both Ford and Nixon have been hardliners on law and order. This stand by both now seems hollow.

These are among the contraditions.

There are many others.

We are not here arguing the rightness of pardoning a former President of the United States. Actually, we believe most Americans thought Ford would eventually do just that -- but not so precipitously, not before charges were made, at least, and not with so broad a blanket of amnesty.

We also believe a pardon, at the correct time, would have been acceptable to most people.

However, President Ford has done serious damage by his act. He has hurt our system of criminal justice. He has possibly irreparably lost the truth people were beginning to give him -- and this, in our perilous times, is probably the greatest loss. He has aroused doubts as to his fairness, judgement and his own separation from the evils people call Watergate.

President Ford may have acted out of the highest motives, and certainly compassion should be so considered, but the appearance to many is that we're just getting more of the same old coverup everyone hoped had ended with Nixon's resignation.

PRICE-COST PINCH WORSENS

By Steve Hilton
Staff Writer

One year after the record - shattering raw food prices of August, 1973, farmers are getting much less for what they sell and paying a lot more for what they buy.

In August, 1973, farmers were getting a record $208 for products worth $100 in 1967, according to newly - released USDA figures. Last month, they were getting $181 for the same products.

One year ago, they were paying $151 for supplies, interest, taxes, and wages that cost $100 in 1967. Last month, they were paying $173 for the same items.

By the USDA's general yardstock of farm welfare, producers were worse off last month than a year ago. The USDA measure is the ratio of prices received to prices paid. Last year, the August ratio was 138; last month, it was 105. The most dramatic collapses in price from the consumer boycott days of late summer, 1973, were in meat animals.

Major meat animals prices, liveweight per 100 pounds, showed these 12- month declines: all beef, from $51.70 to $36.60; calves, from $68.20 to $34.30; hogs, from $56.30 to $36.10.

Eggs and live broilers, too, were worth dramatically less this summer.

The average price of all eggs sold by farmers, including hatching and retail, was 72.3 cents per dozen in August, 1973, and 48.7 cents last month. Live broilers brought 36.5 cents per pound last year, and only 20.4 cents last month, unchanged from July.

Grains and hay registered relatively moderate advances from July to August, with prices mixed from those of a year ago. Wheat was $4.45 per bushel in August, 1973, $4.04 this July, $4.24 last month. Corn was $2.68 a year ago, $2.91 in July, $3.37 in August.

All hay, baled, was up from $39 per ton in August, 1973, to $51.10 last month, from $48.20 in July.

Soybeans were up from July, to $7.55 per bushel from $6.10, but well below the $8.99 of August a year ago.

Both potatoes and dry beans fell from July, but stayed above prices of August, 1973. Potatoes, per 100 pounds, brought $4.76 a year ago, $6.34 in July, and $4.97 last month. Beans brought $17.90 per hundredweight a year ago, $30.50 in July, and $28.30 last month.

All milk sold to plants, seasonally adjusted, fell to $7.70 per hundredweight in August from $7.89 in July. The price was up from $7.26 in August, 1973.

Increases in the cost of dairy feed, however, forced milk producers even nearer the financial wall: in August, 1973, 100 pounds of milk was worth 127 pounds of feed; in July, it was worth 129 pounds of feed; last month, it was worth only 110 pounds of feed.

Most feeds registered dramatic price increases from July to August: cottonseed meal, $8.42 per 100 pounds to $10.70, soybean meal, $8.29 per 100 pounds to $11.40, laying mash, $141 per ton to $168, broiler grower, $157 to $180, dairy rations, 14, 16, 18, and 20 per cent protein, $125 to $143, $126, to $152, $130 to $156, and $132 to $162.

All- feed price index last month was $208 for products priced at $100 in 1967, up from $178 in July and up from $195 in August, 1973.

A REBEL IN HIS CHURCH TOO

The striking thing about the latest Soviet attacks on Alexander Solzhenitsyn's book on Stalin's labor camps, "The Gulag Archipelago," is that they pick on the issue that separates him from many of his fellow- dissenters — his religion. . . Unlike other prominent Soviet dissidents, Mr. Solzhenitsyn is a Christian: a serious member of the Russian Orthodox church.

In his church, as in other things, he is a rebel who makes a lot of people uncomfortable. At Easter, 1972, he sent an open letter to the newly elected Russian Orthodox Patriarch in which he taxes the church's bishops with open connivance at the systematic diestruction of the Christian faith. The letter contrasted the Russian church's concern about evils "in distant Africa and Asia " with its failure to say anything at all about "things which are wrong here at home." The total ban on religious instruction is one of the matters where he says the Orthodox church has failed. . .

Not surprisingly, this letter touched off an angry argument. An Orthodox priest from Pskov, Father Sergei Zheludkov, critixised Mr. Solzhenitsyn, in an open letter published in the underground samizdat network, for his "all-or-nothing" attitude. . . .

But Mr. Solzhenitsyn's point of view seems to have a substantial following. An Orthodox layman, Anatoly Levitin, is serving a three-year sentence passed on him in 1971 because of his demands for religious freedom and other civil rights. This category of dissidents, unlike the agnostics and atheists who probably make up the majority of the regime's opponents, are a particular thorn in the authorities' flesh because they threaten to cause a revival on interest in religion.

According to Soviet estimates, about 15 per cent of people living in the cities are still practising Christians, and about 30 per cent of those living in the countryside. That seems to mean that, after 56 years of the materialist state, there are still at least 30 million believers in the Soviet Union: and it is by no means evident that the number is falling.

POTTED TO THE PARTY

Among the many people who prefer to be cremated (after death, naturally), there are two rather distinct types.

The timid soul, who slips almost unnoticed through life and is too self- conscious to have his remains on display, prefers fiery cremation with not even a plaque or stone to mark the resting spot of his ashes.

The opposite type is the big he-man muscle flexer, who can't face losing his masculine lifestyle image by a Quiet earth burial, says Ball State University psychologist Thomas Spencer, Muncie, Ind. To keep his reputation alive, it's into the flames for the lady killer.

A famous actress, neither timid nor super brave, solved her problem by ordering her remains cremated and packaged so that her world-traveling friend could carry them from one jetsetting spa to another. With her ashes on the move, the actress escaped what she had described as "the remoteness of the cemetery" in favor of the international cocktail circuit. Perhaps she figured that if you are already potted, you might as well stay that way.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

"There has been a great shake-up among some of the Nixon old guard," The Times said on page one, and it told of the old guard's fall from grace and power. This was a story from The Times of Jan. 10, 1906, and while news stories then were sometimes short on details, such as first names, it at least was clear that a politician named Nixon had just been replaced by a politician named Wadsworth as Speaker of the New York State Assembly. The first thing Wadsworth did, the story said, was to appoint a new chairman of the Gas Electricity and Water Supply Committee. His name was Agnew.

WHAT'S IN A INITIAL?

A certain Edmund S. Muskie has been in the news quite a lot lately. But what does the S stand for? Certainly not the same as the S (no period) that separates Harry from Truman! Edmund S. Muskie's middle name is Sixtus, the same as that of Pope Sixtus III, who reigned from 432 to 440 and was later canonized. St. Sixtus' feast day is March 28, the birth date of Edmund Sixtus Muskie, nearly 1,500 years later: March 28, 1914.

RELATIONS WITH EAST GERMANY

The establishment of U.S. diplomatic relations with East Germany goes against the basic grain of one who has opposed communist regimes for so long. Their record of deception need not be recited here. One has only to recall the Berlin airlift and look at pictures of the Berlin Wall to be reminded of the post World War II hostility of the East German government toward its Western neighbors and the U.S.

Had it not been for the iron fist of Stalin and othere Russian leaders, the people of East Germany would, in all likelihood, have been brought back into the world community of nations and enjoyed the good will that their counterparts on the west side of the "Wall" enjoyed. West Germany has been a tower of strength in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Its commerce and industry have been the delight of the world business community. Its great centers of education are functioning and it has contributed generally to the stability of Europe and the entire world.

The logical solution to the German "problem" would be the reunification of the German people. They long for it. A great majority of the people have long since renounced Hitlerism. The great brains of Germany now dwell on the science and the arts, and not war. Maybe some good will eventually come of U.S. recognition of the East German government. Perhaps some day, it will pave the way for a reunification of the German people. HLH.

Secret Crime Session: Federal Anti- Mafia Strike Forces Told They're Again Free to Smash 'Syndicates'

WASHINGTON - Behind the Watergate noise screen the Mafia has been doing bloody business as usual -- methodically kicking its older famed Godfathers upstairs as benign chairmen- of- the- board types; killing, wounding and torturing each other in some "territories"; watching "families" disintegrate in other cities; reorganizing under a 'new strong man" in New York, the mob syndicate capital; but steadily making its hundreds of millions of dollars through its all- pervading terror taxes.

Not the least of these Mafia - enforced taxes is on meats and other foods, thus raising the already horrendous cost of living.

For a while it appeared that one of the most effective racket- smashing forces would be dismantled. This is the network of 18 Justice Department coordinated anti- organized- crime task forces. One of their top directors, a high Justice Dept. official, has been complaining to business leaders for months that their funds were short and about to be cut off entirely.

But that threat's gone now. Anti- Mafia strike force leaders from all over the country met secretly last Thursday and Friday in Department headquarters. They were assured the task forces would be rejuvenated. They were told that their patron saint (and many believe he is exactly that) Assistant Attorney General (Criminal Division) Henry Petersen wouldn't resign. They could count on him. That's good news. He's a pro. Dedicated. He took an inordinate amount of smearing during the Watergate hearings, though he has fought crime a lot longer and more sincerely than many of those in both houses of Congress who sneered at him.

The secret sessions screened considerable information on Mafia operations on many fronts including the infiltration of some unions.

Some of this will be obvious comes Nov. 18, in a New York federal court when the Southern District strike force attempts to prove that three high officials of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters (AFL-CIO) were tied in with a pattern of racketeering, bribery, income tax evasion, just to mention a few of the charges.

It's estimated that his operation, when combined with what are said to be shakedown attempts in the wholesale meat industry, serving tens of millions of people in the 125- mile radius around New York, has cost the public at least 1 per cent more on its meat bills.

There were several score chiefs and aides (mostly tough and truly uncompromising young men) of the 18 strike forces. But strike force 18 appears, for the moment, to have the most significant innovative assignment. This is the so- called "Lansky Operation Financier" Unit. It was thwarted by the almost lethal heart condition of the aging alleged crime syndicate braintruster.

A federal judge even chided strike force 18 chiefs for attempting to put the gambling casino czar on trial despite his poor health. Lansky survived. But so did the strike force 18. It will now try a new strategy -- the attempt to establish "a pattern of racketeering" in organizations be they of labor, industry, commerce or even the underworld itself.

Under the Organized Crime Control Act this would give the government the power to dissolve an organization once it's proven to be dominated by such a pattern of racketeering.

In a Damon Runyonesque approach the Brooklyn, N.Y., strike force went to a grand jury recently and began attempting to prove that the so-called "Colombo family" of the alleged Mafia is dominated by racketeering.

And why not use this tactic? The "family" is an organization. It matters not whether it is bound together by blood oath or common action in gambling, loan sharking or labor rackets.

Thus the "family" members can be -- and have been -- called up to testify. They are given immunity. If they balk, they can go to prison. If successful, this can crack the national combine, which still is directed by a "national board" or "commission."

This is vital now. From the highest crime- smashing authorities comes word that the New York network of Mafia families is fanning out. It is heading south through the capital district, certainly into Atlanta, and west by southwest.

And according to the federal authorities, the so-called syndicate is being reorganized in a businesslike fashion by the man who may soon become what the Godfather cult will call the organization's "Mr. Big."

The authorities believe he's the 64- year- old, 5- foot-5 Carmine (Lilo) Galante. Though he left Atlanta penitentiary last Jan. 25, he has allegedly brought the old Joe Bonnano crowd under his control; is planning to absorb the jumbled feuding Colombo mob; merge the leaderless Luchese (Three Fingers Brown) "family"; franchise out "captains" to the still bossless Genovese operation; make his deal with the new chief of the Buffalo- based "family" of the late Stefano Magaddino; make "a meet" with the Chicago syndicate still allegedly led by the legendary Tony Accardo.

This can only be envisioned if there's peace with the reputed boss of bosses, aging Carlo Gambino who really is a rusticating chairman- of- the-board type. Then when Don Carlo passes on to whatever made him, Galante, with ties ranging from Montreal to Sicily, will have it made.

So it's good to know that the strike force chiefs met in a high command conference last week -- and under Henry Petersen will be permitted to fight the Mafia.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: More on the Mafia

WASHINGTON — In an earlier column, we began the confessions of Eugene Ayotte, better known inside the Mafia as "Johnny A," who has been hiding under a false identity since he defected to the Justice Dept. six years ago.

He has talked to us at length about his life in the Detroit Mafia. We have also obtained confidential FBI reports of his interviews with agents. His revelations provide the most dramatic account of Mafia operations since the late Joe Valachi ripped the veil of secrecy from this sinister society in 1963.

Ayotte has described a netherworld of violence, corruption and profit. It is a world ruled by a few overlords who command the unquestioning loyalty of their criminal subjects. The penalty for disobedience is death. It is a strange mystic world whose roots are sunk deep in Sicily but whose methods are those of modern America.

Johnny A, a swarthy, handsome man with a Runyouesque flair, was a swindler. He specialized in arranging burglaries and burnings for shady businessmen who would collect the insurance and sometimes a share of the fenced goods. He also helped the Mafia take over failing businesses.

He pressed the proprietor of a Detroit lounge to cash his bad checks, for example, until the poor fellow went broke. Then the Mafia stepped in, bailed him out and took over the bar.

In short order, the Mafia managers set up a poker table in the cellar and began raking in profits from both booze and gambling. The lounge began attracting celebrities, among them Detroit Lions football stars Wayne Walker and Mike Lucci, who got into a scuffle. The publicity frightened the Mafia, which hastily abandoned its interest in the lounge.

Ayotte's most prodigal business venture -- a classic example of how the Mafia operates a legitimate business -- landed him in the slammer for bankruptcy fraud.

With $13,500 handed to him by Detroit's mob enforcer Mike Rubino, Johnny A opened a furniture store. From the beginning, he said, it was to be a "bust- out joint" -- that is , a business which would be milked and then bankrupted, leaving all the creditors with empty hands.

Ayotte opened a bank account with the $13,500, wangled a registration license from the city and provided Dun and Bradstreet with a cock- and- bull story to impress creditors. Then Ayotte and his Mafia partners spent the $13,500 on furniture.

The cash purchase and the Dun and Bradstreet rating enabled Ayotte to order around $300,000 worth of furniture on credit. The "Palm Furniture Company," as Ayotte called his new establishment, developed a curious clientele.

During the daytime, not many customers disturbed Johnny A and his friends who passed the time playing gin rummy. But at night, the store swarmed with Mafia customers who rolled up in their big Cadillacs.

"There would always be 20 or 30 people ... taking everything out the doors nightly," alleges a confidential FBI memo based on Ayotte's statements. Some customers paid nothing, others left token payments.

The friendly furnituremen continued their largesse for three months until they almost ran out of furniture. Ayotte recalls that a Michigan prison warden picked out a shortwave radio for himself and a tape recorder as a graduation gift for his daughter. Both items were delivered to him at the prison by Rubino's personal bodyguard.

Ayotte also told the FBI that a police inspector, the late Paul Sheridan, "just about furnished his entire home with goods taken from the Palm."

Some of the biggest bosses in gangdom shopped at the Palm. Furniture deliveries were made to their fashionable Grosse Point home in the dead of night. Others dropped by the store to pick up refrigerators, air conditioners, Italian provincial furniture or whatever struck their fancy. None of them were properly billed.

Johnny A's customers read like Who's Who in the Rogues Gallery -- Angelo Meli, Joseph "Joe Whip" Triglia, Anthony "Tony Long" Cimini, William "Black Bill" Tocco, John "Papa John" Priziola and even the Don of Dons, Joseph Zerilli.

One gangland intimate, not in on the secret, looked at the disappearing merchandise and commented loudly: "I don't think this store is being run right."

The Justice Dept. thought so, too. Federal prosecutors eventually shut down the Palm and locked up Johnny A.

MAFIA- GO- ROUND: Here are some more of Eugene Ayotte's Mafia stories: Toledo's most notorious Mafia Don Anthony "Whitey" Besase, keeps a "beautiful shrine of the Virgin Mary with running water and all and flowers in his backyard ... During the Senate crime hearings in 1963, the mob nervously ordered all numbers money called in. One hood, Dominic "Sparky" Corrado, was $150,000 short. He had to make good by selling his house and mortgaging his brother's home ... The Marlon Brando movie, "The Godfather," accurately portrays the Mafia's close ties with politicians and entertainers, according to Ayotte. A gangland promoter, named Herman "Turk" Prujansky, hobnobbed with five top singers, several movie stars and a famous New York columnist, said Ayotte...

Lawmen who keep Mafia figures under surveillance are known, in underworld parlance, as "baby sitters" ... The Mafia goes by many names -- Unione Siciliano, the Black Hand, the Syndicate, the Organization. But to many insiders, it is the Cosa Nostra, "our thing" ... So many Mafia bigwigs wound up with expensive farmland outside Detroit that they jokingly began to call each other "Zeke."

District Governor urges new spirit for Rotarians

Sikeston Rotarians and Rotary Anns (club members' wives) were visited by Southeast Missouri District 609 Gov. F. R. "Rock" Wilferth of Cape Girardeau Monday night at Ramada Inn.

Wilferth brought greetings from Rotary International President Bill Robbins of Florida. Wilferth noted that the Rotary organization, which has clubs in over 150 nations, is the oldest service club organization in the world.

"Revival of the Rotary Spirit" is the theme for the world organization, and Gov. Wilferth's theme for the local area is "A New Spirit in District 609".

Wilferth said that the strength of the Rotary organization is the dedication of its members. As an example, he said, "Man first gets into Rotary, then Rotary gets into the man."

Wilferth and Sikeston club president Ken Williams presided over a club assembly, in which various service chairmen reported plans for service activities during the year.

Lewis Blanton, club service chairman, reported that the club is experiencing regular informational programs concerning various activities in the community's schools, hospital, fire and police departments, sheltered workshop, Heritage House, Chamber of Commerce and others.

Community service chairman Ed Scheu reported the club's assistance in such community activities as Boy and Girl Scouts, Farmers Recognition Night, scholarships for Southeast Missouri State University, Service Above Self Awards to graduating students of the local high school, Little League baseball sponsorship and Boys and Girls State sponsorship.

Harley Barnes, vocational service chairman, said club members are being used in career education in the local schools and an Employe Recognition Day is planned.

International service chairman Fred Koch reported the club's support of Rotary Foundation, which supports exchange students with other nations, provides grants for study in foreign universities and sponsors teams from varied professions on educational visits to this country and foreign lands. Rotary District 609 is sponsoring a team from India later this year.

Williams summed up the major objectives for the year as:

Encourage and foster the Rotary ideal of Service Above Self in the community, provide four scholarships, sponsor a circus in the Spring, help with the Sikeston Farmer's Recognition Banquet and sponsor Little League baseball team, Boys State, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, student guests and Service Above Self awards to seniors.

Fund- raising activities will include: the annual Rotary Chili Day, Rotary Auction and using the Rotary Club popcorn trailer in various community activities during the year.

PSC official calls line duplication idea ridiculous

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A member of the Missouri Public Service Commission has called a proposal of electric cooperative officials to end line duplication around the state "ridiculous," accusing the Association of Missouri Electrical Cooperatives of completely changing its positions on coop regulation by the PSC.

During a hearing Wednesday on duplication of electrical service between Rural Electrification Administration cooperatives and private utilities, officials of the cooperative association said they did not want regulation by the Public Service Commission.

Atty. Eugene E. Andereck, representing the group, contended that laws currently on the books, if implemented, could end distribution line duplication in rural areas.

But Commissioner Willard Reine, admitting that he had viewed problems of the cooperatives favorably in the past, cited the association's strong support for legislation the past two years that would have brought REA coops under PSC regulation.

He then said the "180-degree turnaround" in the association's position on regulation had lost his support "and there is nothing you can say to change my mind."

While agreeing that the commission has no regulatory power over cooperatives but only over private utilities, Andereck claimed that the association supported such legislation only because it appeared the only way open at the time to solve the duplication problem.

He contended that if the commission used its power to control the territories of private utilities, which commissions have historically failed to do, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which has jurisdiction over cooperatives, would control territories of the coops so that any duplication would be avoided.

Joseph Burke, representing one of the state's private utilities, claimed, however, "basic fairness dictates that all suppliers and all facilities be regulated" by the PSC.

The commission was told that the federal regulations prohibit REA coops from bringing lines into an area that already has electrical service, but association officials claimed those rules are not being enforced and coops have gone into already serviced areas.

"Duplication by electrical cooperatives has been a matter of survival and has been done to counteract the encroachment of the private power companies," said Bill Ramsey, an association board member.

Commissioner Charles J. Fain pointed out, however, that there is nothing the PSC could do, under current statutes, to halt an electrical cooperative from going into an area already served by a private utility, and after citing Andereck's claim that the federal government does not enforce its regulations against duplication, he said:

"You're the first lawyer I've ever heard say a federal agency does not enforce its own rules. The Department of Agriculture would deny that. Your position is completely untenable. It's idealistic."

Reine added, "I think this whole theory is ridiculous."

The PSC was charged two years ago by the legislature to make a complete investigation of the problem of wasteful line duplication, which all parties involved have agreed exists.

Briefs on the legal aspects of the matter will be submitted to the commission next month.

Clerk says nothing unusual in audit report

CARUTHERSVILLE

"There is nothing unusual, out of the ordinary, or illegal in the audit of this county," Pemiscot County Clerk John Alford says.

The county clerk refers to a release by State Auditor John Ashcroft concerning a three- year audit of Pemiscot County through last December.

"I have read the audit report as it was printed in the Kennett paper and at first glance it could give the impression that something illegal had been done by the county court," Alford said. "That is not the case."

The report said:

"Unauthorized interfund borrowing and lack of effective investment policy has been discovered in the operations of the Pemiscot County Court, State Auditor John Ashcroft said today.

"The audit report showed a deficit balance of more than $80,000 in the federal revenue sharing account, representing interfund borrowing, which is not allowed by law."

The county clerk explained the situation:

"What happened was this: We had $210,000 that matured Jan. 15 in revenue sharing funds in certificate of deposit in the bank last Dec. 31. The court felt if we took this amount off of deposit early we would lose a large amount of interest.

"So we left the money on deposit, thus creating a deficit in this one particular account. This deficit lasted just seven days because, on Jan. 7, the county received a revenue sharing check in the amount of $104,000."

There was nothing out of the ordinary about the move, Alford stated. As a matter of fact, the county court was acting in the best interests of the people of Pemiscot County by not allowing the county to lose the interest that was brought in when the amount was left in certificate of deposit, he said.

"The audit was just like any other audit," Clerk Alford remarked. "When the audit was brought back to us, we were told we were about average as compared with other counties in Missouri."

Stretch the paycheck by following money-saving tips

By WANDA ATCHLEY

If the spiraling cost of living is keeping you up nights and you find money spent for luxuries last year must now be spent for necessities, don't panic. Just take a deep breath and remember that you are not alone. Thousands of housewives are now faced with the problem of stretching the paycheck to cover just the most necessary expenditures.

I have personally declared war against inflation and have set out to beat the system or at least learn to cope with it. During the past few months, I have read and clipped every tip offering ways to stretch money. After putting these tips to a test, some have proved to be real money savers.

Since fall house - cleaning time is here, why not hold a yard sale? Do you have unused items in the attic? A silver tray you've always hated? They can add up to moneymakers for you and bargains for other people.

Speaking of fall, now's the time to think of winter's heating bills. Is your thermostat working properly. Can you set it at a low temperature to keep the pipes in working order without overheating the house? A warm day in September is a better time to check it than a cold day in October or November.

If you have a lot of clothes that need cleaning, you may take them to a coin-operated cleaning machine where you can do it yourself and save money.

Do you need linens? If you can't wait until the after Christmas white sales, buy seconds or irregulars. No will will ever notice, and the store won't tell your mother -in-law.

Why not check the local bakery for day-old products. The prices will be lower, and "day old" is far from stale.

I have found that discount prices at some stores are better than sale prices at others. Search for the stores that sell clothing, appliances or even aspirin at a discount.

Don't wait until you are completely out of an item before replacing it. A hurried trip to the corner drug store may turn out to be far more expensive than a regular trip to a discount store.

The last and perhaps most important tip is don't drive all over town looking for a bargain or sale. Gasoline is too expensive for this kind of traveling. Check the stores first by phone or through newspaper ads and then plan to make fewer stops each time you use your car. The energy crisis may be behind us, but the gasoline prices which accompanied it are still around.

Former fashions, fads discussed and modeled

RISCO — Former fashions and fads were the program topics of the Rural Independent Club's meeting Sept. 12 at the home of Mrs. Raymond May. The program was presented by Mrs. Floyd Smelser and Mrs. Don Landers, who narrated the event as home movies were made.

Various reproductions and replicas of favorite styles from the past included the hoop skirt, lavish "dagging" trim, the Grecian empire, crinolines, richly trimmed petticoats, the dirt- dragging trains, the bustle, the corseted "hourglass" figure, the hobble skirt and the flapper styles.

These were modeled by several club members as interesting facts were stated concerning each particular period of time, along with popular tunes of each era.

Costumed dolls were displayed, along with color photographs of interesting antique costumes which are on display at the Malden museum. Among the authentically old items displayed were quilts and coverlets well over 100 years old, gowns and camisoles of the early 1900s which were accented by handmade trim and a 30- year- old crepe paper costume.

During the business period, members responded to roll call by stating their favorite hem length.

The annual book auction was postponed until a Nov. 7 luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Kenny Carlisle.

Members were reminded to deliver all Betty Crocker coupons collected for the Cerebral Palsy drive to the Risco post office or to Mrs. Mary Harris. Mrs. Royce Fortner was named chairman of the club's adopted trial program of RIF (Reading is Fundamental.)

During the social period which followed, the hostess served refreshments.

Others attending were: Mrs. Tom Pearson, Mrs. P. C. Crouthers, Mrs. G. H. Coffer, Mrs. Verly McCord, Mrs. Gene Lancaster, Mrs. Jerry Pearson, Mrs. Paul Cummins, Mrs. R. E. Dockrey, Mrs. R. T. McGee, Mrs. Mike McGee and Amy, Mrs. Leon Hickerson and daughter, Mrs. Emily Applegate, Mrs. Lowell Kirksey, Teresa McGee, Mrs. Charles Kirksey and Jennifer, Mrs. Kenny Carlisle and Sally Grant.

Birthday party set by Sunlighters group

The September birthday party for residents of the Sikeston Convalescent Center, sponsored by the Sunlighters Volunteer Group, is scheduled at 2 p.m. Sept. 25.

The announcement of the party date was made at a Sunlighters meeting held Tuesday at the center.

Mrs. Mildred Canedy, soloist, and Mrs. Mayme Jean Poage, pianist, will present the program.

President Margaret Byrd commented on the program presented for the August birthday party for residents. Featured at that party was Mrs. Joyce Jordan of Lilbourn, a ventriloquist who was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Phoebe Rowe, and Susan Johnson, granddaughter of Sunlighter Virginia McGaher, who played viola selections.

A vote of thanks was extended to the administrative staff of the center for the Sunlighter emblems, instigated by Mrs. Imogene Treece and designed and embroidiered by Mrs. Helen Howle.

Tentative programs for upcoming monthly birthday parties were announced. The Bill Volner square dance group will return in November. The December party will feature a "chalk-talk", picture sketching exhibition, with musical background, by two Cape Girardeau artists.

Mrs. Judy Douglas, recreational director, provided Sunlighters a sketch and measurements for lap robes needed by the residents. The robes will be made by the ecumenical sewing group. She also asked for ideas on craft projects, which some residents would enjoy and especially for ideas on Christmas favors to be given to patients at Sikeston Regional Diagnostic Clinic.

George Stevens, administrator of the center, spoke briefly about matters of policy and asked for written resumes from each Sunlighter on personal impressions of the volunteer's role and for any suggestions pertaining to service to residents.

The Sunlighters October meeting is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 8. Each member is asked to bring at least one prospective member.

Meetings

THURSDAY

American Legion Auxiliary will meet at the Heritage House at 6:30 p.m. for a potluck supper.

Births

RICHARDS -- Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Richards of Benton are parents of their third child, second daughter, who was born at 11:22 a.m. Sept. 3 at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. The girl weighed eight pounds five and one-half ounces and has been named Tresa Mae.

Mrs. Richards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hillman of Illmo. Richards is the son of Mrs. Alta Richards of Haigler, Neb.

ROBEY — Mr. and Mrs Tom Robey, 1606 E. Kathleen Ave., are parents of their first child, a daughter born at 9:45 a.m. Monday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds 10 ounces and has been named Leslie Ann.

Robey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robey, 314 Helen St., and is employed by the State Highway Department.

TAYLOR -- Mr. and Mrs. Richard Taylor of Oran Route One are parents of their first child, a daughter who was born at 10:15 a.m. Sept. 3 at Southeast Missouri Hospital. The girl weighed four pounds, five ounces and has been named Julie Ann.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Barbara Sue Hope, duaghter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hope of Jackson. Taylor is employed by Jeffe DeWitt of Sikeston as a truck driver and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Yewell Taylor of Oran.

Napkin folding methods shown

Mrs. Robert Pennington demonstrated eight classic methods of folding napkins during her presentation, "On Any Day", before 17 members who attended Tuesday night's meeting of Tau Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the home of Mrs. Gene Collins, 710 Mimosa Drive.

Mrs. Pennington also discussed the history of the fine art of napkin folding.

Mrs. Allen Crites was in charge of an auction of gifts which members had brought home from their vacations this summer.

Mrs. Weldon Sanderson was co- hostess for the meeting.

Because she prohibited the serving of alcoholic beverages at all White House functions, Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes earned the nickname "Lemonade Lucy".

Ann Landers

Customer airs gripes about 'check-out dames'

Dear Ann Landers: I'm itching to reply to "Veteran of Supermarket Tangles." That check-out dame had lots to say about rude customers. Her list of complaints was plenty complete. I wonder if she is aware that the customers may have a few gripes from the other side of the counter. Having just come back from the supermarket, they are fresh in my mind. Here's a little advice on how to make a shopper's life miserable:

1. Ring up the items so fast that the cash register sounds like an adding machine. It's fun for the shopper to discover, after she gets home, that she paid $1.69 for a 69-cent box of cereal. She then has the enjoyable task of returning to the store for a refund. The walk will be good for her.

2. Throw the canned goods down on the counter as if you were bowling. With a little luck you can break a few eggs and squash a loaf of bread.

3. Wait until the 5 o'clock rush to count your money and change the cash register tapes. It's a thrill to stand in line and watch you fumbling around for half an hour. Every housewife adores shopping and hates to leave the store.

4. Pack everything in one big bag. When the customer gets out of the store, the bottom will fall out and she'll get another good look at everything she bought. It will give her an opportunity to see she has everything she needs. Also, it's wonderful exercise to chase cans down the street.

I can think of plenty more, but this will do for now. Thanks for a chance to speak my piece. --The Customer Hasn't Been Right Since World War Two.

Dear World War: Your letter was my laugh for the day. Thanks a heap for putting your gripes down on paper. It's a great way to unload your hostility, and I'm not kidding.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband blames me because we have no friends. He says I am too quiet and people thing I'm stupid.

The real reason we have no friends is because He doesn't shut his mouth. The man is an authority on everything. He turns every conservation into the Spanish Inquistition, asking questions about things that are none of his business. He loves to get into people's personal lives, and is a bigger gossip than any woman I know.

What can I do to get him to see this? --The Mouse

Dear M: I know the type. Three mouths and no ears. I suggest that you discuss the "no friends" problem with a counselor. If the counselor is halfway bright, he'll get the picture early and hopefully get the message across to Mr. Yacketyyack.

Dear Ann: I am six months pregnant and very happy about it. My husband and I have been trying to have a baby for two years. The problem is that we've been separated for three months. He wants a divorce. We've been fighting for over a year. After he learned I was pregnant he took off.

My question is, what should I do about birth announcements? It seems like a stupid question, but I am stumped. I know I'll be having this baby alone. Any suggestions? --Mama

Dear Mama: Why send announcements? Your close friends will know you had the baby and the others will learn of it eventually. I have always regarded announcements of any kind as "invoices."

If you insist on sending birth announcements, ignore the fact that you separated. Your husband is the baby's father and that's the only thing that matters.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Lander's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Miss Nelson weds Mark H. Hopkins

BLOOMFIELD — Miss Lou Ann Nelson and Mark Hestle Hopkins exchanged wedding vows at 11 a.m. Aug. 23 in a double-ring ceremony in the chambers of Judge James Guffey in Wickliffe, Ky.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson of Bloomfield Route Three, and Hopkins is the son of Hestle Hopkins of Dexter and Arlene Hopkins of Bloomfield.

The couple was attended by the bride's parents and the groom's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hopkins of Bloomfield.

Following a wedding trip to Kentucky Lake, the couple is living in Cape Girardeau, where both are students at Southeast Missouri State University.

On Sept. 13, the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower given at the Bloomfield Community Center by Mrs. Gail Cookson of Puxico and Mrs. Lanis Smith and Miss Donna Hopkins of Bloomfield. Also attending were:

Mrs. Geneva Nelson, Mrs. Arlene Hopkins, Mrs. Colleen Hopkins, Mrs. Oli Bee McRoy, Mrs. Laveda Hopkins, Mrs. Betty Hester, Mrs. Betty Ann Gilmore, Mrs. Edna Kirby and Carolyn, Mrs. Carrie Hopkins, Mrs. Beatrice Hester, Mrs. Irene Somers, Mrs. Willene Gibbs, Miss Kim Hester, Mrs. Maxine Underwood, Mrs. Rosalie Dooley, Mrs. Joyce Underwood and Miss Ann Beal of Bloomfield.

Mrs. Lucille Vaughn of Dexter; and Mrs. Virginia Meredith, Mrs. Wecie Richards and Miss Nancy Nelson of Sikeston.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hestle Hopkins

French woman is visiting Lilbourn

LILBOURN — Miss Babette Frigeni of Lyon, France, a large city near the Alps Mountains, is visiting Lilbourn High School.

Miss Frigene, 20, who arrived at Lilbourn Aug. 28, is working as an aide in the French classes at the school. She will remain in Lilbourn until the end of October.

Miss Frigeni has been placed in Lilbourn by the Amity Institute, an organization in California which places foreign aides in schools in the United States.

"It is interesting to come to a small town in the United States like Lilbourn after studying about all the large cities in the United States, like New York and Chicago," she remarked.

Last year, Miss Frigeni spent nine months in school in Minnesota outside St. Paul. In June she worked in a language camp in Montana and in August she toured the United States from New York to Los Angeles with her parents and other French people.

She has also visited England, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Tunisia, Austraia, Turkey and Israel.

Miss Frigeni is very interested in languages and she speaks English, French and Spanish.

She has expressed an interest in speaking and showing slides to civic groups, and may be reached at Lilbourn High School.

Committee recommends application be submitted

MALDEN — The bootheel's Resource Conservation and Development Committee recommended Monday that the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission submit an application to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for federal funds under the Resource Conservation and Development (RCD) program.

If the Bootheel's RCD program is accepted for funding, the Soil Conservation Service will assign a man to the local office and make the area eligible for SCS grants, says Ronald Yersak, BRPC planning director.

Elmer Kinkade of Bernie, chairman of the Bootheel's RCD Committee, said that the program will play a vital role in improving drainage, erosion and sedimentation problems in the Bootheel.

Each county may experience individual problems, he said, but only through joint county and state cooperation can the problems be corrected.

Before an area can qualify for funds under the RCD program, Yersak said a Resource, Conservation and Development Committee had to be formed for the area, bylaws adopted, officers elected and a local RCD program endorsed.

This is what happened at Monday night's meeting to form a Bootheel committee, Yersak said.

Officers elected, in addition to chairman Kinkade, include Judge D. J. Merideth Jr. of Caruthersville, vice chairman, and K. M. Streeter of Painton, secretary-treasurer.

Once the program receives funding, all drainage districts, municipalities and counties in the Bootheel area will be eligible to receive funds, Kinkade said.

There's a wacky switchboard in town where all you get from the operator is a dizzy signal.

Dexter firemen answer 2 calls

DEXTER — Firemen answered two calls Wednesday night, according to Fire Chief Al Banken. The first call came at 8:05 p.m. to an oven fire at 240 Alice St. The second, at 1:45 a.m. today, was to John Gray's Pool Hall where a skillet of grease had ignited.

No damage was reported from either fire.

A fifth at bridge makes the game more bearable for many of us.

Clayton leads Murray

Don Clayton

MURRAY, Ky. — Malden, Missouri's Don Clayton was named to the Kodak Division II All-American team last season, set a season record in rushing for Murray State and was second in the nation in college- division rushing. He was also Murray's leading scorer with 54 points. His best game was with Morehead State when he had 205 yards. Clayton feels his best game of the season was against Eastern Ky. He had 168 yards before being injured on the second play of the fourth quarter and sat out the rest of the game.

Racer coach Bill Furgerson says he knows of no one more deserving of All-American honors than Clayton. "Don has his best games against the best teams we play," Furgerson said. Clayton came back from an injury, to make All-American of which doctors said would end his football career.

Clayton, a prep All-American at Malden, was a three year starter -- a tight end as a sophomore and a tailback as a junior and senior. He scored 198 points as a senior and 121 as a junior. He played linebacker on defense and made the all-conference team at both positions. Clayton was All-American as a senior and honorable mention all-state as a junior.

Clayton is a senior this year and Coach Bill Furgerson is expecting him to lead the team in scoring again. Don is 6'2" 195 pound tailback. He is one of the fine running backs in the nation. He's extremely strong, a fine blocker and pass receiver, and does whatever he's assigned to do.

Coach Furgerson is counting heavily on these players to lead Murray State to the Ohio Valley Championship. Furgerson isn't that optimistic, but his opposing coaches have picked his team to beat for the championship. Charlie Carpenter is an All- Ohio conference first team offensive guard. Carpenter is 6-3, 243 pounds and will captain the Racers this year. Quarterback Tom Pandolfi was at quarterback every minute Murray was on offense last year. He was second in the conference in passing and total offense. Tom is a 6-2, 212 lb. senior from Spotswood, N.J., and looked very polished during spring drills.

Mark Hickman, the Racer, Safety was named to the All- Ohio Valley conference team last year as a sophomore. He calls the Racer pass coverage. Joe Echert will be playing a different position than the one he played last year when he was named to the All*Ohio Valley conference team at defensive end. Joe will be playing middle linebacker this year. He will be an alternate captain this year.

Murray's offensive unit was hit severely by graduation last year but it's defensive unit returns almost in tact. The defense was the second best in the conference last year. The defense will not be as big as last year but quicker. Coach Bill Hina's biggest defensive problem will be lack of depth in the line. The Racer secondary should be strong, experienced, and deep.

MSU won their second game of the season Saturday beating Western Carolina 10-3 with a tremendous defensive effort.

"We won because we had a super defensive effort," Murray State head coach Bill Furgerson said. "It was our best defensive game since we beat Eastern 7-3 two seasons ago," defensive coach Bill Hina said.

"It was the first game my offense has been held without a touchdown since I've been here," (six years) Western Carolina coach Bob Waters said, "and I still think this is the best offensive group I've had."

The Racer's 10-3 win over the Catamounts was their second of the season and sends them into the Ohio Valley Conference competition against Morehead next Saturday with a 2-0 record.

"Our defense held two of the best pass receivers in the nation (Jerry Gains and Eagle Moss) to only six receptions and only two of them were for long yardage," Furgerson said, "and both our scores came after interceptions which gave the offense excellent position."

The Racers took a 7-3 lead in the second quarter after linebacker Don Hettich intercepted a Cat pass on the 37- yard line and completed their scoring with a 25- yard field goal in the third quarter after defensive back Bruce Walker intercepted a pass on the Cat 16.

Several promising Catamount drives were shut off by the Murray defense which intercepted five passes and recovered one fumble.

The defensive star was Hettich who had 8 tackles, 15 assists, and 2 interceptions. Linebacker David McDonald had 7 tackles and 3 assists, end Chuck Wempe 6 and 10, back Al Martin 6 and 5, end Alf Caldwell 6 and 3, tackle Jay Waddle 5 and 9. Walker had two interceptions and McDonald one. Martin recovered the Cat fumble.

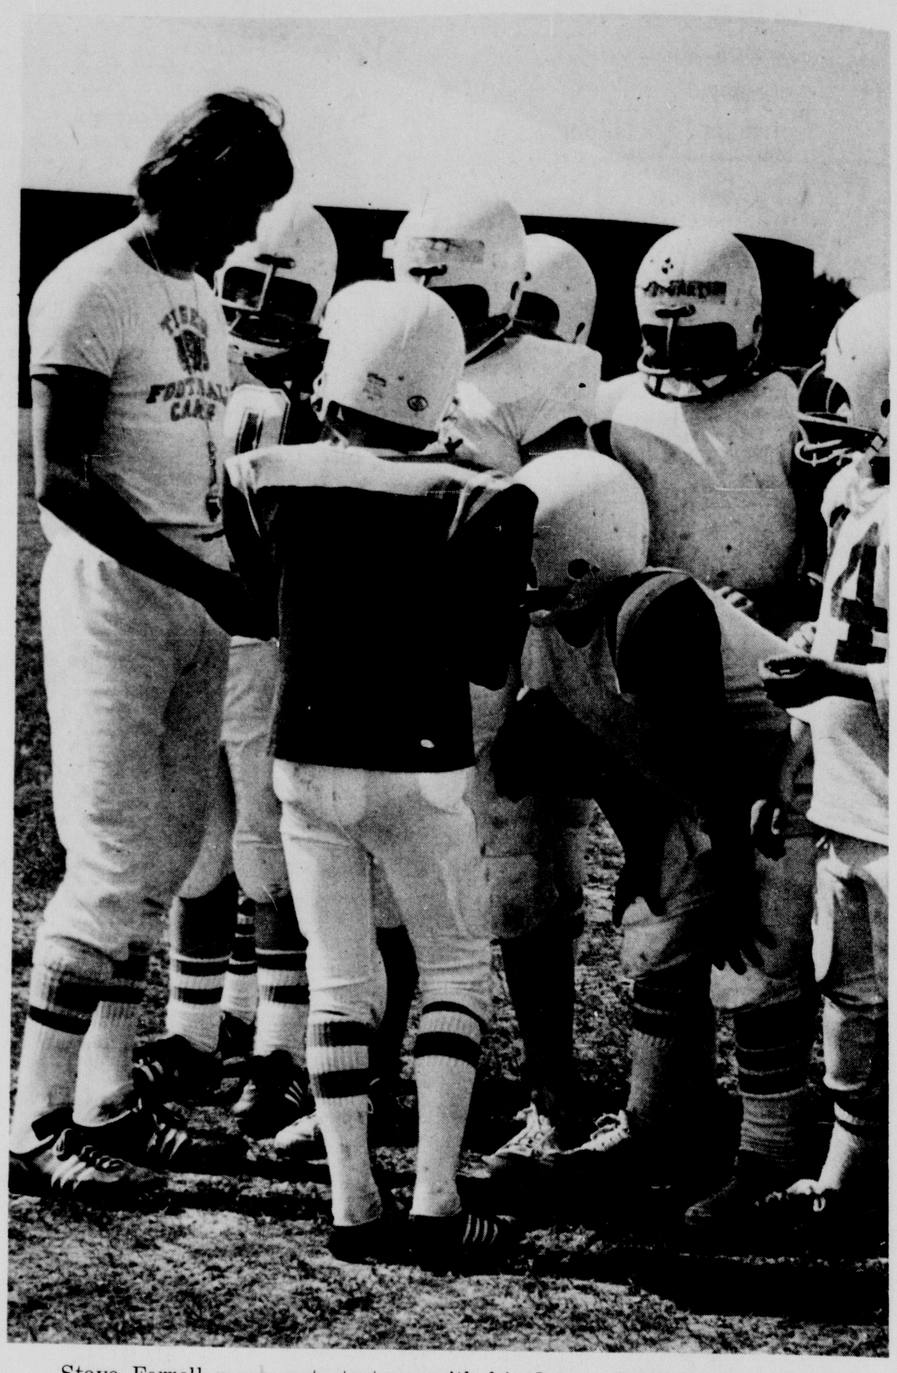
Waddle, Wempe, and tackle Bob West kept a tough rush on the Western Carolina passer throughout the game.

Racer offensive stars were quarterback Tom Pandolfi, tailback Don Clayton, and kicker Steve Martin. Pandolfi completed 12 of 21 passes for 120 yards and a touchdown. Clayton rushed for 84 yards in 20 carries and caught a pass for 18 yards. Martin had a field goal and an extra point, averaged 43.6 on 7 punts, and put all his kickoffs into the endzone.

Fullback B. F. Behrendt was the leading receivers with four for 17 yards. Tight end Doug Sanders caught 3 for 39 yards and a touchdown, and wide receiver Gary Brumm caught 2 for 25 yards.

Morehead, 1-0 after its 14-12 victory over Marshall Saturday, has a big offensive line, a pair of outstanding running backs, a great kicking game, and a seasoned quarterback, according to Furgerson. "We're really a small team," he said, "and I expect their size to give us lots of problems. They beat Marshall for the first time in three years and our scouts report they have a solid, well-rounded team."

The Murray- Morehead clash will be at Morehead at 7:30 p.m.



Steve Ferrell maps out strategy with his Jaycee Little League football prospects during drills in preparation for Saturday's season opener. Games will be played at Middle School.

Big week in MIAA

ST. CHARLES — Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football team will be out to prove this Saturday they are as good on the road as at home. All schools except Northwest will be away this week.

Three of the four teams playing host won last week, while two lost. Northwest Missouri State blanked Kansas State - Pittsburg 13-0. Lincoln University of Jeff. City won 2-0 from Langston College by blocking a punt and recovering in the end- zone.

Southwest Missouri State defeated Kansas State - Emporia 24-13. University of Missouri - Rolla handed Missouri Western a 15-7 defeat and evened it's record to 1-1.

Harding College spoiled Northeast's opening 21-16 and SEMO lost to Delta State of Louisiana 19-3.

Long ride back

CAPE GIRARDEAU — It was a long drive back Sunday morning for the Southeast Missorui State University football team after the Indians dropped their season opener in Cleveland, Miss., Saturday night (Sept. 14) to Delta State College, 1903.

But the Tribe went right to work Monday to correct the deficiencies which resulted in the loss in hopes of a better showing Saturday night (Sept. 21) against Missouri Southern. The game will be at 7:30 in Joplin.

Jim Lohr blamed the defeat which spoiled his debut as a college head coach on mental errors and a lack of execution, especially on the part of the offense. He was also disappointed in his team's kicking game.

The defense played pretty well, he said, although "we had a breakdown on two or three plays."

Lohr said the Indian offense had been executing well in practice and added he was unable to explain the unit's showing against Delta State, although he conceded the Deltans had a "very tough defense."

"We went down there intent on winning, we tried very hard, and we played very hard, but we didn't play well," said the coach.

Oepning night jitters might have been part of the reason for the poor performances, Lohr said, but he declared, "That's the weakest excuse in the world."

Southeast Missouri State's new quarterback, junior college All- American Rick Wieser who threw for more than 1,500 yards in 1973, was able to complete only nine of 29 passes. And Delta State defenders picked off two of Wieser's aerials in the fourth quarter, returned them for long yardage, and set up the two touchdowns which sealed the victory for the Statesmen.

"Our timing wasn't there on our passing game, and our protection of the passer broke down," said Lohr.

"I felt at the half that we were going to win the football game," the Indian coach said. "We were a step away from going all the way two or three times. I felt we could make the necessary adjustments. But we didn't."

Brock continues assault on bases

PITTSBURGH (AP) — No. 110 came neatly and cleanly for Lou Brock. He didn't even slide.

The St. Louis Cardinal outfielder extended his season base-stealing record Wednesday night with a successful theft in his only attempt in a 4-1 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After Brock reached first on a forceout in the fifth, Pirate catcher Manny Sanguillen made an attempted pickoff throw on pitcher Jim Rooker's first toss to the plate.

Brock broke for second on the next pitch, and he was safe standing up even though Rooker pitched out to Sanguillen.

In the third inning, Brock took second on a wild pitch after Rooker had made five straight throws to first.

Coulson promoted

Steve Coulson was promoted to Syracuse of the AAA International League a Farm Club of the New York Yankees but the better league hasn't been to his liking as he only had four hits in 13 at bats for a lowly .174 batting average.

Randy Smith of Arbyrd won his only decision of the week and now has a 15-6 record at Salinas, California of the California A League. Smith ERA is 3.19.

Red Birds defense falters in 4-1 loss

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals took the just-another-ballgame, get-emnext-time approach after losing, but down the hall the Pittsburgh Pirates sighed with relief.

"This was a must game for us," Manager Danny Murtaugh said after Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 4-1 Wednesday night to move within 1 1/2 games of the first-place Cardinals in the National League East.

The Pirates had stumbled to six straight losses previously and the Cardinals had won that many in a row, including a 2-1 triumph over Pittsburgh in 13 innings Tuesday night.

"The pressure was definitely on us," Pirate lefty Jim Rooker said after stopping the Cardinals with a complete-game six-hitter.

"A loss tonight would have put us 3 1/2 games back, and we would really have had our work cut out for us," echoed Al Oliver, who backed Rooker with two doubles and a pair of RBI's.

The Cardinals, who had beaten Pittsburgh in 10 of 15 previous encounters, didn't buy the notion that another victory would have been the coup de grace for the Pirates.

"No way," said Cardinal shortstop Mike Tyson, who made two errors in the fourth inning when the Pirates took the lead to stay with two runs off loser Lynn McGlothen.

"We still have to keep winning. There's no way we could have wrapped it up with a win tonight," Tyson added.

"Everybody was talking about that game we won last night like it was the end of the season," noted Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst.

"But that was only one ballgame, and if you're going to talk about one ballgame you may as well talk about the first game of the season," he added.

Prior to their six-game slide, the Pirates had led by as many as 2 1/2 games over the Cardinals.

Joe Torre, whose first-inning double produced the only Cardinal run, noted that pitfalls await any team that gets too comfortable with a lead.

"You really do have to play them one at a time, and you can't be looking forward to this series or that series," he said.

Torre's RBI-double in the first scored Ted Sizemore, who had singled and taken second on a walk to Ted Simmons.

"When I gave up that run it made me try all the harder," said Rooker. "I knew McGlothen is the kind of pitcher who might only need one run to win."

Oliver opened Pittsburgh's two-run fourth with a double. Willie Stargell then hit a grounder that was deflected by McGlothen and fielded by Tyson, whose errant throw eluded Torre at first and enabled Oliver to score.

Stargell was thrown out at second on the play, but Dave Parker followed with a single and took third on a single by Manny Sanguillen.

Parker then scored when Ed Kirkpatrick's bloop to center was dropped by Tyson, who nonetheless managed to throw to second for the forceout on Sanguillen.

Cardinal outfielder Lou Brock stole his 110th base in the fifthinning to extend his season record.

The Cardinals close out their three-game series here tonight.

"It's not necessarily a MUST game for us," said Oliver, "but it's a game we had better win."

What's the law?

The case of the departing mother

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ed and Irene's marriage was a bad coupling. The only thing they could agree upon was that they didn't like each other. And, it took them 13 years to agree even about that.

Consequently, by the time they finally obtained a divorce, they had two children. And in their separation agreement it was provided that Irene was to have custody of the children and that they were to be brought up in their parents' religion.

When Irene subsequently remarried, however, she married someone of a different faith. What's more, they planned to move to another state where members of Irene's religion were about as scarace as capitalists in Red China. Consequently, Ed started a court action to gain custody of his children.

"If she is allowed to take our kids out to the boondocks," he complained to a judge, "their religious upbringing will fade into the sunset."

"Being with their mother," was Irene's answer, "is more important than their being brought up in a specific religion. After all, God is everywhere, but a mother isn't."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you take custody away from the departing mother and give it to Ed?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that religious training of a child is an important consideration in awarding custody. And in this case, noted the judge, both Ed and Irene had expressed the desire in their separation agreement that they wished their children to be brought up in their religion. Thus, concluded the judge, custody was best with Ed who lived among members of their faith.

TREATMENT NECESSARY

What can tapeworm do?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — In one of your columns will you talk about the problem of tapeworms. I know an older person who has tapeworms. What will the tapeworm finally do to her? I thought in recent years something might have been found for tapeworms.

Dear Reader — Before writing a syndicated column I had no idea how many people had worms, or at least thought they had worms. There are three types of tapeworms that commonly affect man; the fish tapeworm, the beef tapeworm and the pork tapeworm.

Infection with the fish tapeworm is not uncommon in the New York Jewish housewife. As she makes her own gefilte fish there is a tendency to sample it during preparation, and the incompletely cooked fish is the source. The fish tapeworm can be prevented by freezing fish for 48 hours or more at a temperature of minus 10 degrees centigrade or by being sure the fish is thoroughly cooked before it is eaten.

The fish tapeworm is unique. It absorbs the B-12 in a person's food in the intestine and may cause pernicious anemia. Neither the beef tapeworm nor pork tapeworm does this.

Beef and pork tapeworms may cause some mild, nonspecific abdominal pain and digestive disturbances which may go unnoticed or be attributed to a variety of digestive disorders. Most tapeworms don't cause significent symptoms. This is surprising since a beef tapeworm may be from five to 10 yards long. Rarely the worm may block the duct that drains the pancreas or even block the opening to the appendix and cause appendicitis.

The proper method of prevention is eating meat free of infestation and properly cooked. One should avoid eating raw or rare meat in areas where the beef is infected with tapeworm larvae, or the areas where the beef tapeworm is prominent. This includes Mexico, South America and Russia.

The head of the tapeworm is attached to the wall of the intestine with hooks or suckers. The segments of the long ribbon-like tapeworm literally use the food material within the intestinal tract that's already been processed by our own enzymes to feed itself. The pork tapeworm can also invade the muscles, brain and other organs of the body and cause other problems. This characteristic is not shared with either the fish or beef tapeworm.

While the fish and beef tapeworm segments that are expelled by man are not contagious (you get the infection by eating the fish muscle or beef muscle that contains the larvae), it is true that the pork tapeworm is contagious and a person who has the pork tapeworm can pass on the infected material to another person by failing to observe strict rules of cleanliness.

As you see, there are certain practical points about tapeworms — you should be careful to eat only uninfected fish, beef and pork; second, fish, beef and pork should be properly cooked before it is eaten (this includes in the kitchen); and third, in reference to pork tapeworm, proper sanitation is an absolute must for anyone who is infected, if the problem isn't to be passed on to others. The diagnosis has to be established by examinations, and, finally, if such a problem exists it can, and should, be treated.

Dentists cannot give physicals or certify death

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dentists in Missouri are not authorized to perform compltete physical examinations of patients and cannot sign death certificates, an attorney general's opinion said Wednesday.

The opinion said Missouri law limits diagnosis and treatment by dentists to teeth or the mouth, and that dentists are not required to be licensed under the healing arts law, which applies to physicians and surgeons.

If an oral surgeon is licensed by the state Board of the Registration of Healing Arts, he could perform physical exams.

The opinion noted that Pennsylvania and California allow dentists to perform physical examinations. Oklahoma allows dentists to sign a death certificate.

In other opinions issued today, assistant attorneys general said:

—The two-thirds vote requirement for school bond and tax elections does not conflict with the U.S. Constitution or other provisions of the Missouri Constritution.

Roll call on abortion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 50-34 roll call by which the Senate refused Tuesday to table, and thus kill, an amendment by Sen. Dewey F. Eartlett, R-Okla, to bar federal funds for abortions except to save the mother's life included:

Democrats for tabling: Symington, Mo.

Republicans for: Pearson, Kan.

Democrats against: Eagleton, Mo.

Republicans against: Dole, Kan.

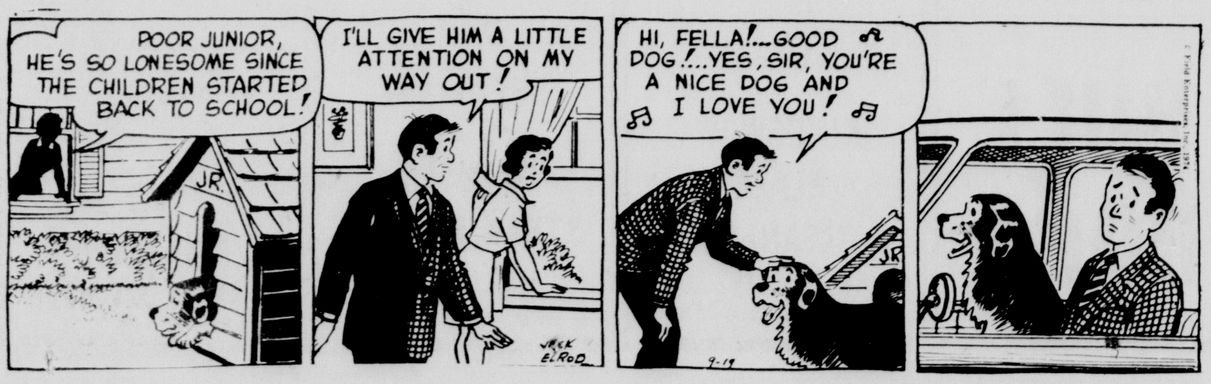
THE RYATTS by Jack Elrod



Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Sept. 19, the 262nd day of 1974. There are 103 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1881, President James Garfield died in Elberon, N.J., of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Baltimore, Md., on July 2.

On this date —

In 1777, American soldiers in the Revolutionary War won the first battle of Saratoga, N.Y.

In 1846, the British poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning fled the tyranny of her father in London and eloped to Paris with Robert Browning.

In 1870, the French surrendered Versailles to the Germans in the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1928, Americans were introduced for the first time to Mickey Mouse — in the Walt Disney cartoon, "Steamboat Willie."

In 1934, Bruno Hauptmann was arrested in New York and charged with the kidnaping of the baby son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh.

In 1955, President Juan Peron of Argentina was ousted from office after revolts by the army and navy.

Ten years ago: Democratic vice presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey charged that election of Barry Goldwater as president would mean a death sentence to U.S. agriculture.

Five years ago: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the U.N. General Assembly that peace in Vietnam hinged on U.S. renunciation of military and other intervention.

One year ago: Sweden's new king, Carl Gustaf, was formally installed, succeeding his late grandfather.

Adult education classes planned

HOWARDVILLE — The New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District is planning to start adult basic education programs in the district and in the Risco and North Pemiscot districts, if a sufficient number of people are interested. Recruitment is now in progress and the final enrollment and registration will be taken from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Oct. 3.

ABE requires a minimum enrollment per class of eight students, with a recommended enrollment of 12 students per teacher. When average attendance for a period of one month drops below eight students per teacher the class should be consolidated with other classes in the program.

If this is not possible, the class should be discontinued. Primary and intermediate instruction will be available at Lilbourn, Matthews, North Pemiscot, New Madrid, Parma, Portageville, Howardville, Marston and Risco.

Secondary instruction, preparatory to taking the GED Test (high school equivalency test), will be offered at New Madrid High School by Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

Persons interested in attending should contact the unit administrator of the school he or she wishes to attend, or individuals who attended the program last year.

Scheduling will be flexible. However, each class will run for 120 hours. Classes will meet two nights each week.

No charges will be made to students enrolling in this program.

Final registration on Oct. 3 will be taken at the following places:

Lilbourn, high school building; Matthews, cafetorium; New Madrid, Scott Street elementary building; Parma, high school building; Portageville, high school building; Howardville, junior high building; Marston, Foundation School building; North Pemiscot, Ross School cafetorium and cafeteria at Wardell; and Risco, elementary cafeteria.

Evening classes enrollment taken

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Enrollment is now going on for the adult evening classes to be conducted at the Cape Girardeau Vocational School in Cape Girardeau. Some 65 courses are offered and will start next week. Courses vary from skill training for job placement or advancement to courses which are for a personal interest.

Anyone who would like to enroll in any of the adult education classes may phone the school, 335-9619 or 334-3358, stop by the school, 301 N. Clark, or write. Some classes do fill up fast, so adults shoulds sign up as soon as possible. Fees vary for the many courses.

The post- secondary courses, which are approved for veterans benefits, include auto mechanics, refrigeration and air conditioning, radio and TV and secretarial science. The secretarial science class is 25-30 hours per week for 18 weeks while all other post- secondary classes are in session 16 hours per week for 30 to 34 weeks.

For adults 16 years old and over who wish to complete their education, the adult basic education Learning Lab will offer training and preparation for the high school equivalency exam. The course is free to all adults who have not finished high school. A person may enroll at any time throughout the school year. The Learning Lab will be open afternoon, and evenings for the convenience of working adults.

Also continuing this year is the Business Lab. This will allow an adult to enroll at any time during the year and attend classes in the clerical field either day or night, as all instruction is individualized. Classes offered include: typing, shorthand, business machines and key punch.

Numerous classes for improvement of job skills and general interest are also offered.

Bicentennial commission sets meeting Sunday

The Sikeston Bicentennial Commission will hold its next public meeting at 3 p.m. Sunday in Sikeston Activity Center, 201 S. Kingshighway.

The commission was formed at a special public meeting Sept. 8. Officers were elected and three basic themes were chosen for the area celebration to center around.

Officers include Jim Wenneker, chairman; Lynn Colley, vice chairman; Hope Terrell, secretary; and Sharon Bray, coordinator.

Themes chosen were "Heritage '76", to recall our nation's history; "Festival USA", to dramatize the spirit of hospitality and mobility that characterizes the American people; and "Horizons '76", to call for achievement in the future.

Other charter members of the commission are:

Bill Wellborn, Chamber of Commerce executive director; Jim Smith, Chamber of Commerce president; Mary Margaret Abernathy, Beta Sigma Phi Tau Chapter; Carolyn Fulton, 4-H; Peggy Mosley, Council on the Arts; Dottie Moore, Council on the Arts; Mrs. A. B. Alderson; Carolyn Dupont and Janie Felker, Girl Scouts; Lucille Stubblefield; Virginia Weidemann, Meadow Lane Garden Club; and Margaret Harris, Daughters of the American Revolution.

SeMo State to offer class at Sikeston HS

After some initial uncertainty, it was announced today that Southeast Missouri State University will offer the evening course, Assessment of the Exceptional Child, at Sikeston High School during the fall semester.

Dr. Willard J. Morgan, director of school services at Southeast Missouri State, said, "This class has definitely materialized and will be offered because we have received assurance of additional student enrollment."

Enrollment and the first class session will be in the vocational building at Sikeston High School at 6 p.m. Monday, and the class will meet at 6 p.m. each Monday thereafter.

The three- credit course is open to both graduate and undergraduate students. The fee is $51. Horace W. Bedwell will be the instructor.

The course is designed to cover the special diagnostic procedures for children who are exceptional with emphasis on interpretation and application in the educational process.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Morgan at Southeast Missouri State, 334-8211, extension 254.

Equivalency classes offered

GRAY RIDGE — For adults who do not have a high school education and need a diploma to get a better job or to enroll in college, the Gray Ridge DAEOC Center is offering an opportunity to obtain a high school equivalency certificate.

Enrollment for this class will be held Sept. 30 at 7 p.m. in the DAEOC Center. Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation staff members will be present to explain subjects taught and class schedule.

Classes will begin Oct. 7.

The course is without cost to persons who qualify and is an equal opportunity program funded by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation office at Portageville.

For information, contact the DAEOC Center at phone number 283-5490.

In the Bahamas, it has been believed that water from a crab's claw will cure an earache.

Golden Eagles band to perform in Atlanta

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Golden Eagles Marching Band of Southeast Missouri State University will be traveling a great deal during the last days of September.

The 188- member band will journey to Atlanta Saturday aboard five chartered buses and will provide the halftime entertainment Sunday at an Atlanta Falcons' football game.

On Sept. 29, the Golden Eagles will be in St. Louis to present pre- game and halftime shows at a St. Louis Cardinals' football game. The St. Louis appearance is an annual event.

The Golden Eagles, directed by LeRoy Mason, have been invited to present a show for the Falcons on three different occasions, but have been unable to accept until this fall because of conflicts with Southeast Missouri State' home football schedule. The band performs at all Indian home games.

Following Sunday's game, which will be televised in some parts of the country on CBS, the band will return to Cape Girardeau.

When the band is in St. Louis, Paul Lavalle, music director for the Radio City Music Hall in New York City, will be the guest conductor for the pre- game show. He will lead the band as it plays, "The Cardinals Are Charging" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Golden Eagles' halftime show will be a salute to George M. Cohan. For the finale the band will be joined by the McCluer North High School band of St. Louis and, while a huge American flag unfurls, both bands will play Cohan's "You're A Grand Old Flag".

A large group of Southeast Missouri State alumni will observe the band's St .Louis performance. The university's Alumni Association reserved a block of 158 seats for the game, and all have been sold.

ABC newsman to be guest at Jonesboro

JONESBORO — Arkansas State University will host Frank Reynolds, newsman for ABC News in the first in a series of lecture- concert presentations Monday at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Carl R. Reng Center.

Reynolds had 25 years of broadcast journalism experience before joining ABC News in 1968. He was the ABC News White House correspondent for three years.

As correspondent, he accompanied President Lyndon Johnson on major trips and conferences throughout the world, including flights to Vietnam, the summit meeting with Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin and the meeting with the Organization of American States in Uruguay in 1967.

He covered major candidates on the campaign trail during the 1960 and 1964 campaigns, was a floor reporter for the 1964 political conventions, regional reporter for ABC News on election night in 1966 and 1968 and played a key role in the network's coverage of the 1968 conventions.

He was active in coverage of the U.S. space shots, funeral ceremonies for President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Paris peace negotiations and President Richard Nixon's round- the- world trip.

Reynolds was the recipient of the George Foster Peabody Award for television news broadcasting in 1969.

Reynolds was scheduled to speak in the ASU lecture-concert series last fall but canceled to cover Watergate-related news.

The program is free to the general public.

1. In Memoriam

In memory of Donald R. Husk who passed away Sept. 18, 1969.
The light still shines in our home with the presence of the one we love so dear, so we'll never be alone. I'll never, never forget that five years ago on a Sept. night, we were all scared and filled with fright.
To us it was like no tomorrow, because that night he's gone to the wonderful place in the sky, where everyone lives and no one dies.
We love him now and always will, the happiness he brought us, would make your heart stand still.
Missed and loved by
Wife Sue, children Vicken, Maria, Wendy, Darrell, and daughter-in-law Charlotte.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

Deaths

MILDRED COWAN

DEXTER — Mildred L. Cowan, 67, died at 4:45 a.m. today in Dexter Memorial Hospital.

She was born Oct. 2, 1906 in Illinois.

On Dec. 24, 1927, she married Lester Cowan, who preceded her in death Jan. 12, 1973.

Survivors include one son, Thomas L. Cowan of Rochester, Mich.; one daughter, Wilma Marie Boone of Clio, Mich.; four brothers, Henry Yager of Madison Heights, Mich., Morris Yager of Shreveport, La., Eugene Yager of Dexter and Lawrence Yager of Frisco, Colo.; two sisters, Dorothy Darrell of Kirkwood and Bertha Hartline of Dexter; and five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. Friday at Rainey Funeral Home, where services are scheduled Saturday. The Rev. Orville Myers will officiate.

Burial will be in Dexter Cemetery.

ELISHA AUSTIN

DEXTER — Elisha Austin, 57, died Monday at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

He was born March 6, 1917 at Bobo, Miss.

Survivors include his widow, Josephine Badgett Austin; one son, Jessie James Austin of Dexter; one daughter, Glossie Austin of Dexter; three brothers, Elic Austin of Kansas City and Elijah and George Austin of Palm Beach, Fla.; six sisters, Lucille Williams and Minnie Patterson of Essex, Lee Emma Armstead of Olive Branch, Miss., Ruby Potts of Palm Beach, Sallie Johnson of Hines City, Fla., and Ivory People of Chicago.

Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Rainey Funeral Home.

Services are scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday in the New Mount Zion Church with the Rev. Frenchie Brown officiating.

Burial will be in Frogwater Cemetery near Malden.

BUREN G. DYE

GIDEON — Buren G. Dye, 67, died of a heart attack Wednesday at his home.

He is survived by his widow, Eva; four sons, Ben, Vernon, Kenneth and Jackie; one daughter, Wanda Lawrence; one sister, Savanna Campbell; and seven grandchildren.

Friends may call after 6 p.m. today at Russell Mortuary, where arrangements are incomplete.

Firemen called

The fire department answered calls to two fires Wednesday, neither of which resulted in damage, according to Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer.

The first call, received at 4:52 p.m., was to the Associated Natural Gas Co. office, 112 S. New Madrid St., for an electrical fire in a light ballast.

A grease fire at the Luber building, 207 E. Center St., was reported at 11:25 p.m., but the fire had already been extinguished when the fire department arrived.

injuries in a two-car accident at 7:50 a.m. today on Highway 61 three miles north of New Madrid.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Patrick Robertson, 22, of New Madrid attempted to pass another vehicle and collided with a southbound car driven by Glenda Dirickson, 33, of Lilbourn.

Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

World News In Brief

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — President Ford's address to the 29th General Assembly stirred only timid and guarded hope among proponents of international action to deal with staggering world food problems. The President promised the assembly that the United States would spend more on food shipments to needy countries and increase technical aid to their food production programs. He also said the U.S. government is ready to negotiate a world food reserve plan. But he pointed out that the problems of food shortages, oil prices and runaway inflation are all related and said a global strategy for food and energy is urgently required.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Emmet James Kay, the last known American prisoner of war in Indochina, said he made statements in favor of the Communist Pathet Lao because he was upset about the Watergate scandal. "I am a loyal American," the 47-year-old commercial pilot told a news conference. "... I must admit I was quite upset during the Watergate days about the United States." Kay was freed in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, after 16 months in captivity.

LONDON (AP) — Political observers predicted another close race as the three-week campaign opened for the national election Oct. 10. Ladbroke's, one of Britain's leading bookmakers, made Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party a 3-to-2 favorite to win the largest number of seats in the House of Commons. But it also quoted the equivalent of 5-to-3 odds that it would fall short of a majority, as it did in the February election. The latest Gallup poll, published in the Daily Telegraph, gave the Laborites 42 per cent of the vote; the Conservatives 34; Liberals 20.5 and others 3.5.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Palestine guerrillas were hosts to the Japanese Red Army terrorists who held 11 persons hostage in the French embassy in the Netherlands. The Syrian government said the four terrorists — three who invaded the embassy in The Hague last Friday and a fourth they had freed from a French jail — would remain in the custody of the Palestine Liberation Organization until they decided where they wanted to go next. The Syrians promised the Japanese safe conduct to the country of their choice in negotiations after they were allowed to land in Damascus Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the nation's largest teacher organization has warned that crime, welfare and unemployment will shoot up if "education is kept hostage" in the fight against inflation. James A. Harris, head of the National Education Association, was among 180 delegates to a two-day, economic mini-summit conference at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, a prelude to the national summit conference Sept. 27-28.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Separated by surgery which took 6 1/2 hours, Siamese twin girls from the Dominican Republic slept in separate cribs for the first time in their 13 months of life. "I know of no reason why they won't live," Dr. C. Everett Koop said after the long operation by 23 surgeons and nurses at Children's Hospital. "They were two healthy little girls together. We have every reason to believe they'll be two healthy little girls apart," said Koop, who headed the surgical team. Clara and Altagracia Rodriguez were given their own complete sets of internal organs during the surgical operation.

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of pounds of food stockpiled in American fallout shelters during the 1960s are being sent abroad to aid famine stricken nations. "Rather than let the stuff go rancid in the shelters, the thing to do is try to feed somebody with it," says John L. Padgett, Louisiana's deputy director of civil defense. An Associated Press survey shows at least 30 states and 40 communities have donated or plan to donate a percentage of the stockpiled food to hungry nations.

CHICAGO (AP) — A Catholic priest hears confessions from some of the kitchen help while performing his duties as a chef in a Chicago restaurant. The Rev. Richard Bernowski, 33, is the night chef overseeing the large bill-of-fare at Sage's East on the Near North Side, one of Chicago's posh eateries. In the day he teaches history at St. Franci Theological Seminary. He turns the salary from his hobby as a chef to his religious order, the Holy Catholic Church, Malabar Rite.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's health has been injected into the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial for the first time. Attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman asked for a 60-to-90-day delay in the trial, set to begin Oct. 1. They said it will take at least that long for Nixon to recover sufficiently from mental depression and phlebitis in his left leg to appear as a defense witness.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal crime-fighting agency has quietly hired its former boss as a $135-a-day consultant for up to three months despite his resignation in a political dispute last June. Donald E. Santarelli remains on the payroll of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration as a "special government employe," LEAA and Justice Department officials acknowledged in response to questions. On June 1, Santarelli resigned as head of the agency after suggesting publicly that Richard M. Nixon should quit the presidency because of the Watergate scandal.

HOBART, Ind. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says that if he decides to run for president he will answer any questions raised about Chappaquiddick.

The Massachusetts Democrat, who was here Wednesday for a $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner, said he would "respond to questions and do the best I could" on the controversy surrounding the accident. Mary Jo Kopechne drowned when a car driven by Kennedy plunged off a bridge into deep water off Chappaquiddick Island in July of 1969.

He said, "I have indicated it was a very deep personal tragedy. I have accepted full responsibility for it and full regret for the incident. I would respond to any questions."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is ready to join the special Watergate prosecutor and a House subcommittee in efforts to expand access to former President Richard M. Nixon's tapes and documents. The Senate Government Operations Committee was scheduled to vote on a resolution calling on President Ford to make public all parts of the tapes dealing with Watergate.

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — Poor Evel Knievel. He says his abortive Snake River Canyon jump will bring him only something less than $3 million, only one-third the amount he had said he would earn.

But he's not complaining. "What the hell. I'm still alive. I have the blue Montana sky. What do I need all that money for?" said Knievel as he relaxed in his hometown Wednesday.

A spokesman for Top Rank Inc., the firm that promoted the closed-circuit telecast of the jump, confirmed earnings hadn't approached the hoped for millions.

"Never in our wildest dreams did we think so few people would watch the event. We were very, very disappointed by ticket sales," said Top Rank's Robert Arum. He said he doesn't expect to make much more than $150,000 after expenses.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Kung Fu" television series star David Carradine has been charged with wrecking furniture and breaking windows in a neighbor's home, authorities say.

Police said the 37-year-old son of actor John Carradine was arrested on Monday and released on $1,000 bond in connection with the incident in a house near his Hollywood home.

He was to be arraigned Sept. 20 on one misdemeanor count each of burglary, malicious mischief and unauthorized entry of private property, a city attorney's spokesman said.

Carradine, who could be sentenced to a maximum of two years in jail and a $1,000 fine, wasn't available for comment immediately.

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI says "saints, strong men" are needed to fight the permissiveness that is pervading the church "like a deadly epidemic."

His speech Wednesday was the second time in eight days he has spoken pessimistically about the state of the church as preparations continue for the fourth World Synod of Bishops starting Sept. 27.

In his last speech before leaving his summer residence to return to the Vatican, Pope Paul told 2,000 visitors here:

"Both individually and collectively, the phenomena of weakness, posing, spiritual debility and cowardice are spreading today more than ever like a deadly epidemic among people at all levels."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Power Commission Chairman John N. Nassikas faces House hearings on allegations the FPC allowed overcharging for natural gas. Nassikas said that the FPC had legal authority for its gas-pricing actions, contrary to the view of the General Accounting Office, but he admitted that other criticisms in a GAO report last Friday were accurate. He also said the FPC was investigating 19 of its officials for possible conflicts of interest and would refer any apparently serious cases to the Justice Department.

Eagleton to attend rally

POPLAR BLUFF — Sen Thomas Eagleton is scheduled to spend Sept. 27 and 28 in Poplar Bluff in conjunction with the Truman Day Rally, a spokesman for the rally organizing committee confirmed Wednesday.

Eagleton, who will be opposed in November by former Republican Congressman Tom Curtis, will attend the Friday evening banquet at which Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be the principal speaker. The banquet will be at 7 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Ealgeton will stay in Poplar Bluff Saturday to campaign on his own behalf.

Other well-known Democrats who have confirmed plans to attend the rally are former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Charleston, State Democratic Chairman James Spain of Bloomfield and 10th District Rep. Bill Burlison of Cape Girardeau.

Burlison signs practices code

WASHINGTON — Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison signed the Code of Fair Campaign Practices Wednesday and pledged that his campaign to represent the people of the 10th District will follow the principles of decency and honesty in politics.

"My campaign will be based upon the issues and will be conducted in the best American tradition of fair play," Burlison said. "I call upon my opponent to join me in signing the Code of Fair Campaign Practices and to wage a similar high-level campaign."

The code is distributed by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, a non-partisan, non-profit organization. Among its members have been former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower. The committee has been called "the conscience of American politics."

The code condemns the use of personal vilification, character defamation or scurrilous attacks on any candidate. It also condemns the use of campaign material which misrepresents or distorts the facts and condemns any appeal to prejudice based on race, creed or national origin.

Roll call vote on busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 45-42 roll call by which the Senate voted Tuesday for an amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to bar use of funds in the appropriations bill for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for school busing to achieve racial desegregation included:

Republicans for the amendment: Dole, Kan.

Democrats against: Eagleton and Symington, Mo.

Republicans against: Pearson, Kan.

Proposed budget cuts to be aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will get a $20 billion package of proposed reductions and postponements of spending by the end of this week and an additional $4 billion package within the next few days, Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said today.

Ash told the new House Budget Committee "you will have plenty of work to do."

He did not specify the items President Ford will propose for cancelled or postponed funding, although he did say the two packages would embrace about 100 separate items.

The new budget law, which also created the committee, specifies that the President may not on his own authority refuse to spend money appropriated by Congress. He must file a report recommending cut offs and can temporarily halt spending, but unless Congress backs his recommendation within 45 days, the funds are released.

When the President merely proposes to postpone spending, the postponement holds unless Congress vetoes it.

Hewing close to the administration line that reductions in government spending are a major element in fighting inflation, Ash told the committee there is only about $15 billion in the $305 billion spending budget that is fully controllable and subject to reduction.

Accordingly, he said, no one big cut can be made and economies must be sought all along the line.

Several committee members pressed Ash for instances to back what the administration contends are threats to the budget because of high spending by Congress.

He contended there have been congressional reductions in estimates of amounts that would be spent under existing programs, but at the same time new programs would be written that would require spending — and therefore supplemental appropriations later.

The pending trade bill, Ash said, carries a provision for readjustment benefits to U.S. workers disadvantaged by imports. He said this could cost $600 million in a year.

Several more hundreds of millions of dollars spending over the budget might result from pending veterans education legislation, he added.

Ash said that action now under way on the defense appropriations bill would appear to reduce spending $1.7 billion below the budget.

"Further cuts in defense spending are unwarranted ...," Ash said.

Earlier, in an interview, Ash said President Ford wants "a majority view" from Congress on where the budget ax should fall.

Landfill operation improves

An inspection of the Scott County sanitary landfill near Morley Tuesday afternoon indicated an improvement in operation since an Aug. 12 inspection. The top picture shows refuse as it appears after being dumped during the day, and the bottom photograph shows the landfill after the refuse is covered at the end of the day.

Independents drop gas prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Independent gasoline stations are dropping pump prices as much as 13 cents a gallon, cutting into sales of many higher-priced, major brand dealers, an Associated Press survey shows.

"There's definitely some easing of price all around, especially in the wholesale price available to independents," says Dan Lundberg of the Lundberg Survey of national retail gasoline prices.

"Two months ago, the market for independent gasoline had almost dried up, but now it's open again," says a spokesman for the St. Louis-based Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers.

"Independent refiners who sell to the independent retailers are getting more imported crude and more of the cheaper domestic crude which the majors have to sell off out of their inventories through the (federal) allocation system."

"As a result, the independents' price has dropped 4 to 5 cents a gallon generally, and they're passing it along to the customer. Some independents are going one step further and cutting their profit margins down to build up the sales volume they lost to the majors during the gasoline shortage."

Industry gasoline supply figures indicate that there is more of the fuel in stock this year than the same time last year, but demand is holding about even with last year's level. This means that the majors are having trouble selling all their gasoline through their own outlets.

Many dealers say the increased supply of gasoline has come from conservation by motorists. But some dealers say the major oil companies are purposely holding prices at high levels to boost their profits. This has acted as a deterrent to retail sales, which helps supplies but hurts business, they say.

"I guess they're more concerned with their stockholders than they are about their dealers and their customers," says a Phillips Petroleum dealer in Topeka, Kan.

In Louisiana, where independents have cut prices about five cents a gallon this summer, Exxon dealer Munroe Reed of New Orleans says, "Their lower prices are hurting me and brand dealers like me."

Reed says he and other Exxon dealers have complained for a month to Exxon to lower prices in their area but have seen no results.

Gasoline in Charlotte, N.C., is down 13 cents a gallon from its peak and is selling at 45.7 cents a gallon at independent stations. Major brands are still selling at 58.7 cents a gallon.

Exxon dealer James Robinson of Charlotte complains that his sales are down 25 per cent as customers desert him for lower priced gas. He says Exxon has suggested he stay open longer to try to sell more gas, but the company won't cut prices.

Ohio dealers report price skirmishes between offbrand dealers in Detroit and Cincinnati, but major brands aren't lowering their prices.

In New Hampshire, station owners in Manchester say competition has reduced prices to 50.9 cents a gallon from 56 cents.

And in Chicago, where prices vary as much as eight cents a gallon, some stations are advertising car wash deals or soap or candy with gas.

Royalty contests, parades headline Madrid festival

NEW MADRID — Three royalty contests and two parades headline the entertainment for the week-long 15th annual American Legion Fall Festival scheduled to open Sept. 30 and continue through Oct. 5, according to Mack Cravens, commander of Brown-Twitty Post 595.

Also, in conjunction with the festival, a brief program for presentation of a Bicentennial flag and recognition of New Madrid as a Bicentennial city by officials of the state Bicentennial Commission is planned.

Leading off festival activities will be the opening of a carnival midway providing numerous rides and concessions. The midway will be erected along Mill Street in the downtown area and will operate each night during the festival.

Little Mr. American Legion and Little Miss American Legion of 1974-75 will be chosen in a contest for 4 and 5 - year - olds on Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. The contest is sponsored by Iota Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and will be staged at the New Madrid County R-1 Vocational - Technical School on Highway 61 South.

Contestants may register with Kay Kimes, telephone number 643-2163, or Joy Hendricks, 748-5135.

A kiddie parade, which draws a large crowd of spectators and entries annually, is slated for 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 4. Bicycles will be awarded to the most unusual entry and to the best entry in the parade.

Cash awards will be presented to first, second and third place winners in various divisions, which include miniature floats, decorated bikes, pets, clowns and television characters.

Entries should assemble at the courthouse parking lot by 7 p.m. to be numbered and placed in the proper category. Ralph Higgerson is chairman of the event.

A new event added to this year's festival is contest to select a Junior Miss from 13, 14 and 15- year - old contestants.

The contest will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 5. Candidates are to assemble at 6:30 p.m. in the Bank of New Madrid community room for personal interviews. Entries will then appear in evening gowns on stage on Main Street for final judging and the coronation ceremony.

The winner will receive a $25 savings bond and a trophy. First and second alternates will be presented trophies.

A small entry fee is required. Contestants may register with Mrs. Barbara Jones, chairman, whose telephone number is 748-2119, or Ben Ashley at Security Abstract Co., 305 Main St., telephone number 748-2372.

Special events scheduled the following night on Main Street include a program for the presentation of a Bicentennial flag to the city, followed by the coronation of Miss American Legion of 1974-75.

The New Madrid Bicentennial Commission is in charge of a program set for 7:30 p.m. in which representatives of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Missouri will recognize New Madrid as a participating Bicentennial city commemorating the 200th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Immediately following that program, the Miss American Legion beauty contest will begin. The contest is open to single girls 16 to 20 years old. Candidates may be sponsored free of charge by a business firm, organization or individual that has advertised in the fall festival booklet. Otherwise, an entry fee will be charged the sponsor.

The winner will be awarded a diamond dinner ring, and $50 and $25 savings bonds will be presented to the first and second

Landfill improvements cited; more work needed

BENTON — "A tremendous improvement has been made at the Scott County sanitary landfill site since the Aug. 12 inspection," according to Jim Huck of Poplar Bluff, a district representative of the Missouri Division of Health who conducted a followup inspection of the landfill Tuesday afternoon.

Although the County Court is doing a good job of improving conditions of the land fill, Huck said several more steps needed to be taken before the landfill will meet state requirements for approval.

Huck said proper drainage ditches have not been constructed, the wet weather area has not been prepared and sanitary facilities have not been set up for workers at the landfill. "These are just a few of the minor items which need to be corrected," he added.

The Missouri Division of Health informed the County Court on Aug. 13 that unless the landfill met state requirements within a reasonable period of time, it would be closed. The warning was issued after state officials accompanied members of the County Court to the landfill site and determined that it was being improperly operated.

"I am glad the County Court has taken an interest in the situation and has it under control," said Huck.

Huck said he wished other counties would cooperate to the extent that the Scott County Court has given. "I think the whole situation was just a misunderstanding and, now that the judges understand what a sanitary landfill is, we will not have any more problems," he said.

According to Huck, a timetable for the remaining problems to be corrected at the landfill will be set up later.

Huck said the County Court has indicated it may submit another application to the Missouri Division of Health for approval.

"This will include just a few amendments to the original plan," he said.

11 injured in traffic accidents

A Caruthersville woman was seriously injured and 10 other persons received minor injuries in four area traffic accidents reported by the highway patrol today.

Mary Gentry, 41, received serious injuries in a two-car accident at 11 a.m. Wednesday on a county road two miles southeast of Caruthersville.

The patrol reported that the accident occured at an unmarked intersection when a westbound truck driven by Gilbert Dixon, 29, of Hayti struck on the right side of the northbound pickup truck driven by the woman.

Three passengers in the pickup, Helen Wells, 19, Kathy Rudd, 21, and Nathan Rudd, 2 of Caruthersville, received minor injuries.

All four injured persons were taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital at Hayti.

Two Memphis, Tenn., residents were injured in a one-car accident which occurred at 11 a.m. Wednesday on Highway 60 one-half mile east of Charleston when the driver, William Lewis Cody, 24, lost control after the vehicle ran onto the shoulder.

Cody and a passenger, Betty Ann Cody, 24, sustained minor injuries and were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Three persons suffered minor injuries at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday when a car struck a cow on Highway 61 five miles south of Sikeston.

The highway patrol reported the cow was standing in the northbound lane of the highway and was struck and killed by a northbound car driven by Lewis Montjoy, 21, of Sikeston.

Injured were Montjoy and two passengers, Randal Echols, 19, of Sikeston and Russell Montjoy, 18, of Sikeston, who were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

In Scott County

Home repairs order of the day

Home improvement is the order of the day in Scott County.

Because of the high cost of new housing. the scarcity of mortgage money and economic conditions in general, many local families who had been thinking about buying new homes have apparently given up the idea for the present and are turning, instead, to sprucing up their present ones.

As a result, they have been putting a record amount of money into alterations, additions and repairs.

The figures indicate that their expenditures for such purposes came to a total of $3,622,000 in the past year. This is distinct from their normal month-to- month operating expenses.

The estimate is based upon sampling surveys that were conducted in all parts of the country by the Department of Commerce and upon data from industry sources.

The finding is that the average amount spent by home-owners in Scott County's regional area during the year for upkeep and improvement was approximately $341 per dwelling unit, as against $366 nationally. In 1970, by way of comparison, only $291 was so-spent locally. Part of the increase was due to inflation.

For some homeowners -- those who went in for major repairs and improvements -- the outlay ran much higher than average. Others, who may have done considerable overhauling a year or two earlier, did little this time.

Nationally, the Department of Commerce reports, no less than $18.9 billion was expended in the past year for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties. This was $1.4 billion more than in the prior year.

As for property owners in Scott County, how did they spend their $3,622,000 portion of this total?

In general, a breakdown of the overall figures shows, about 57 percent of the expenditures was for additions, alterations and major replacements.

The other 43 per cent was for maintenance and repairs. By far, the biggest item in this category was house painting, interior and exterior. It was followed by plumbing, roofing, heating and air conditioning.

Harris pleads guilty

BENTON — Jim Harris, 47, of Sikeston pleaded guilty today in Circuit Court to a reduced charge of manslaughter in connection with the March 27 shooting death of Enoch Simmons, 29, of 1917 W. North St., for which he had originally been charged with first- degree murder.

Judge Marshall Craig referred Harris to the State Department of Probation and Parole for a pre- sentence investigation and ordered him to return to court on Oct. 24 for sentencing.

Harris, who remains free on a $10,000 appearance bond, reportedly shot Simmons three times following an argument at Harris's Cafe at 201 Luther St. Simmons was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Miss Clarkton to be selected Friday

CLARKTON — The annual Miss Clarkton Beauty Pageant will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Clarkton High School gymnasium.

The event is sponsored by the finance committee of the Clarkton Parent- Teacher Association. Mrs. Louise Randolph will be mistress of ceremonies for the program.

Contestants in the pageant will be Vickey Barnes, Renee Chism, Cindy Trout, Karen Ladymon, Kay Poe, Faye Jackson, Sandy Moody, Cindy Smith, Roian Beaver, Sue Brown, Louetta Grammor, Pam Miller, Loretta Doone, Debbie Harrison, Sherry Taykowski, Brenda Wingate, Shirley Moody, Cora Harris, Malissa White, Teresa Smith, Becky Richardson and Cindy Hall.

The public is invited.

$385 in goods taken from car

Terry Wagner of St. Louis reported to police Wednesday that approximately $385 in personal property was taken from his car while it was parked at Travelodge Motel, 833 E. Malone Ave.

Taken in the theft were a case of shotgun shells (gauge not disclosed), valued at $70; pair of hunting boots, $40; red slide projector, $200; brief case, value undetermined; and 10 boxes of shells, $75.

Police indicated a wire had been used to open the door on the driver's side.

Elderly man kills himself

BRAGG CITY — Jackson Conley Sr., 76, of Route Two committed suicide at 2:20 a.m. today by self-inflicted shotgun wounds, Pemiscot County Coroner Jimmy Dean and Sheriff Thad Shelly have ruled.

The body was discovered by Conley's son, Jackson Conley Jr., in a bedroom of his home in a wheelchair.

Shelly said Conley reportedly got into his wheelchair and went through the bedroom and the living room to get the gun. The son heard his father moving around, but thought it was his mother, Shelly said.

After hearing the shot and finding his father's body, the son called the sheriff's office at 2:53 a.m.

The body was taken to Carter's Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

MORE REASONS TO AVOID BAN ON RHODESIAN CHROME

Among the more controversial statements of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is his declaration that "... the Byrd provision is not essential to our national security, brings no real economic advantage, and is costly in our conduct of foreign relations." Mr. Kissinger was referring to the Byrd amendment to our military procurement bill of 1971 providing for direct U. S. purchase of Rhodesian chrome, despite the United Nations- inspired boycott. There is much evidence to show that Mr. Kissinger is wrong, especially insofar as the economic penalty to be suffered by the American people, should the ban be reinstated.

The United States produces no chromium; yet, we consume one-fifth of all the world's production of this critical metal. Rhodesia is our third largest foreign source. In addition, our demand for chrome has increased greatly, jumping 23 per cent last year alone. When the original ban was imposed in 1967, we became dependent upon the Soviet Union for chrome, and the response of the Reds was to increase the price to us by 70 percent. A worldwide shortage has pushed prices up 150 per cent this year alone.

"Repealing the Byrd amendment," says Fred B. O'Mara, executive Vice President of Union Carbide Corp., "would send chrome prices skyrocketing and aggravate our nation's already serious inflation." Business Week magazine states flatly that "the price will go through the roof if the U. S. slams the door on Rhodesian imports." And Ira L. Friedman, executive Vice President of a metal powders producing firm, points out that if the embargo is reimposed, U.S. consumers will still buy Rhodesian chrome — "through third parties at double or triple the current price."

Who will pay for it? You will — in every automobile, washing machine, refrigerator, bicycle, or piece of stainless steel you buy.

If Congress has any mercy for the citizen's pocketbook, the call by Mr. Kissinger for a ban on Rhodesian chrome will be rejected.

MISSES AIM

If President Ford wanted to further domestic tranquility in granting a full, free and absolute pardon to Richard M. Nixon, he has failed to achieve his aim.

Instead of moving Watergate onto the far back burner he instead turned the gas full blast.

There are too many contradictions in his action.

1.--Nixon had not been indicted, tried or convicted for any offense. Further, the former president, in public statements, has never admitted to any offense. Rather, he refers to "mistakes" he may have made.

2.--And while their leader goes free of any lawbreaking he may have done while president, droves of his appointees are serving time, under indictment, or have served sentences on charges for which Nixon is now completely cleared.

3.--One of the divisions tearing at our system is a belief that the big boys don't get the same justice as the little guy. President Ford's amnesty for Nixon isn't going to mend that wound.

4.--Both Ford and Nixon have been hardliners on law and order. This stand by both now seems hollow.

These are among the contraditions.

There are many others.

We are not here arguing the rightness of pardoning a former President of the United States. Actually, we believe most Americans thought Ford would eventually do just that -- but not so precipitously, not before charges were made, at least, and not with so broad a blanket of amnesty.

We also believe a pardon, at the correct time, would have been acceptable to most people.

However, President Ford has done serious damage by his act. He has hurt our system of criminal justice. He has possibly irreparably lost the truth people were beginning to give him -- and this, in our perilous times, is probably the greatest loss. He has aroused doubts as to his fairness, judgement and his own separation from the evils people call Watergate.

President Ford may have acted out of the highest motives, and certainly compassion should be so considered, but the appearance to many is that we're just getting more of the same old coverup everyone hoped had ended with Nixon's resignation.

PRICE-COST PINCH WORSENS

By Steve Hilton
Staff Writer

One year after the record - shattering raw food prices of August, 1973, farmers are getting much less for what they sell and paying a lot more for what they buy.

In August, 1973, farmers were getting a record $208 for products worth $100 in 1967, according to newly - released USDA figures. Last month, they were getting $181 for the same products.

One year ago, they were paying $151 for supplies, interest, taxes, and wages that cost $100 in 1967. Last month, they were paying $173 for the same items.

By the USDA's general yardstock of farm welfare, producers were worse off last month than a year ago. The USDA measure is the ratio of prices received to prices paid. Last year, the August ratio was 138; last month, it was 105. The most dramatic collapses in price from the consumer boycott days of late summer, 1973, were in meat animals.

Major meat animals prices, liveweight per 100 pounds, showed these 12- month declines: all beef, from $51.70 to $36.60; calves, from $68.20 to $34.30; hogs, from $56.30 to $36.10.

Eggs and live broilers, too, were worth dramatically less this summer.

The average price of all eggs sold by farmers, including hatching and retail, was 72.3 cents per dozen in August, 1973, and 48.7 cents last month. Live broilers brought 36.5 cents per pound last year, and only 20.4 cents last month, unchanged from July.

Grains and hay registered relatively moderate advances from July to August, with prices mixed from those of a year ago. Wheat was $4.45 per bushel in August, 1973, $4.04 this July, $4.24 last month. Corn was $2.68 a year ago, $2.91 in July, $3.37 in August.

All hay, baled, was up from $39 per ton in August, 1973, to $51.10 last month, from $48.20 in July.

Soybeans were up from July, to $7.55 per bushel from $6.10, but well below the $8.99 of August a year ago.

Both potatoes and dry beans fell from July, but stayed above prices of August, 1973. Potatoes, per 100 pounds, brought $4.76 a year ago, $6.34 in July, and $4.97 last month. Beans brought $17.90 per hundredweight a year ago, $30.50 in July, and $28.30 last month.

All milk sold to plants, seasonally adjusted, fell to $7.70 per hundredweight in August from $7.89 in July. The price was up from $7.26 in August, 1973.

Increases in the cost of dairy feed, however, forced milk producers even nearer the financial wall: in August, 1973, 100 pounds of milk was worth 127 pounds of feed; in July, it was worth 129 pounds of feed; last month, it was worth only 110 pounds of feed.

Most feeds registered dramatic price increases from July to August: cottonseed meal, $8.42 per 100 pounds to $10.70, soybean meal, $8.29 per 100 pounds to $11.40, laying mash, $141 per ton to $168, broiler grower, $157 to $180, dairy rations, 14, 16, 18, and 20 per cent protein, $125 to $143, $126, to $152, $130 to $156, and $132 to $162.

All- feed price index last month was $208 for products priced at $100 in 1967, up from $178 in July and up from $195 in August, 1973.

A REBEL IN HIS CHURCH TOO

The striking thing about the latest Soviet attacks on Alexander Solzhenitsyn's book on Stalin's labor camps, "The Gulag Archipelago," is that they pick on the issue that separates him from many of his fellow- dissenters — his religion. . . Unlike other prominent Soviet dissidents, Mr. Solzhenitsyn is a Christian: a serious member of the Russian Orthodox church.

In his church, as in other things, he is a rebel who makes a lot of people uncomfortable. At Easter, 1972, he sent an open letter to the newly elected Russian Orthodox Patriarch in which he taxes the church's bishops with open connivance at the systematic diestruction of the Christian faith. The letter contrasted the Russian church's concern about evils "in distant Africa and Asia " with its failure to say anything at all about "things which are wrong here at home." The total ban on religious instruction is one of the matters where he says the Orthodox church has failed. . .

Not surprisingly, this letter touched off an angry argument. An Orthodox priest from Pskov, Father Sergei Zheludkov, critixised Mr. Solzhenitsyn, in an open letter published in the underground samizdat network, for his "all-or-nothing" attitude. . . .

But Mr. Solzhenitsyn's point of view seems to have a substantial following. An Orthodox layman, Anatoly Levitin, is serving a three-year sentence passed on him in 1971 because of his demands for religious freedom and other civil rights. This category of dissidents, unlike the agnostics and atheists who probably make up the majority of the regime's opponents, are a particular thorn in the authorities' flesh because they threaten to cause a revival on interest in religion.

According to Soviet estimates, about 15 per cent of people living in the cities are still practising Christians, and about 30 per cent of those living in the countryside. That seems to mean that, after 56 years of the materialist state, there are still at least 30 million believers in the Soviet Union: and it is by no means evident that the number is falling.

POTTED TO THE PARTY

Among the many people who prefer to be cremated (after death, naturally), there are two rather distinct types.

The timid soul, who slips almost unnoticed through life and is too self- conscious to have his remains on dispiay, prefers fiery cremation with not even a plaque or stone to mark the resting spot of his ashes.

The opposite type is the big he-man muscle flexer, who can't face losing his masculine lifestyle image by a Quiet earth burial, says Ball State University psychologist Thomas Spencer, Muncie, Ind. To keep his reputation alive, it's into the flames for the lady killer.

A famous actress, neither timid nor super brave, solved her problem by ordering her remains cremated and packaged so that her world-traveling friend could carry them from one jetsetting spa to another. With her ashes on the move, the actress escaped what she had described as "the remoteness of the cemetery" in favor of the international cocktail circuit. Perhaps she figured that if you are already potted, you might as well stay that way.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

"There has been a great shake-up among some of the Nixon old guard," The Times said on page one, and it told of the old guard's fall from grace and power. This was a story from The Times of Jan. 10, 1906, and while news stories then were sometimes short on details, such as first names, it at least was clear that a politician named Nixon had just been replaced by a politician named Wadsworth as Speaker of the New York State Assembly. The first thing Wadsworth did, the story said, was to appoint a new chairman of the Gas Electricity and Water Supply Committee. His name was Agnew.

WHAT'S IN A INITIAL?

A certain Edmund S. Muskie has been in the news quite a lot lately. But what does the S stand for? Certainly not the same as the S (no period) that separates Harry from Truman! Edmund S. Muskie's middle name is Sixtus, the same as that of Pope Sixtus III, who reigned from 432 to 440 and was later canonized. St. Sixtus' feast day is March 28, the birth date of Edmund Sixtus Muskie, nearly 1,500 years later: March 28, 1914.

RELATIONS WITH EAST GERMANY

The establishment of U.S. diplomatic relations with East Germany goes against the basic grain of one who has opposed communist regimes for so long. Their record of deception need not be recited here. One has only to recall the Berlin airlift and look at pictures of the Berlin Wall to be reminded of the post World War II hostility of the East German government toward its Western neighbors and the U.S.

Had it not been for the iron fist of Stalin and othere Russian leaders, the people of East Germany would, in all likelihood, have been brought back into the world community of nations and enjoyed the good will that their counterparts on the west side of the "Wall" enjoyed. West Germany has been a tower of strength in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Its commerce and industry have beer. the delight of the world business community. Its great centers of education are functioning and it has contributed generally to the stability of Europe and the entire world.

The logical solution to the German "problem" would be the reunification of the German people. They long for it. A great majority of the people have long since renounced Hitlerism. The great brains of Germany now dwell on the science and the arts, and not war. Maybe some good will eventually come of U.S. recognition of the East German government. Perhaps some day, it will pave the way for a reunification of the German people. HLH.

Secret Crime Session: Federal Anti- Mafia Strike Forces Told They're Again Free to Smash 'Syndicates'

WASHINGTON - Behind the Watergate noise screen the Mafia has been doing bloody business as usual -- methodically kicking its older famed Godfathers upstairs as benign chairmen- of- the- board types; killing, wounding and torturing each other in some "territories"; watching "families" disintegrate in other cities; reorganizing under a 'new strong man" in New York, the mob syndicate capital; but steadily making its hundreds of millions of dollars through its all- pervading terror taxes.

Not the least of these Mafia - enforced taxes is on meats and other foods, thus raising the already horrendous cost of living.

For a while it appeared that one of the most effective racket- smashing forces would be dismantled. This is the network of 18 Justice Department coordinated anti- organized- crime task forces. One of their top directors, a high Justice Dept. official, has been complaining to business leaders for months that their funds were short and about to be cut off entirely.

But that threat's gone now. Anti- Mafia strike force leaders from all over the country met secretly last Thursday and Friday in Department headquarters. They were assured the task forces would be rejuvenated. They were told that their patron saint (and many believe he is exactly that) Assistant Attorney General (Criminal Division) Henry Petersen wouldn't resign. They could count on him. That's good news. He's a pro. Dedicated. He took an inordinate amount of smearing during the Watergate hearings, though he has fought crime a lot longer and more sincerely than many of those in both houses of Congress who sneered at him.

The secret sessions screened considerable information on Mafia operations on many fronts including the infiltration of some unions.

Some of this will be obvious comes Nov. 18, in a New York federal court when the Southern District strike force attempts to prove that three high officials of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters (AFL-CIO) were tied in with a pattern of racketeering, bribery, income tax evasion, just to mention a few of the charges.

It's estimated that his operation, when combined with what are said to be shakedown attempts in the wholesale meat industry, serving tens of millions of people in the 125- mile radius around New York, has cost the public at least 1 per cent more on its meat bills.

There were several score chiefs and aides (mostly tough and truly uncompromising young men) of the 18 strike forces. But strike force 18 appears, for the moment, to have the most significant innovative assignment. This is the so- called "Lansky Operation Financier" Unit. It was thwarted by the almost lethal heart condition of the aging alleged crime syndicate braintruster.

A federal judge even chided strike force 18 chiefs for attempting to put the gambling casino czar on trial despite his poor health. Lansky survived. But so did the strike force 18. It will now try a new strategy -- the attempt to establish "a pattern of racketeering" in organizations be they of labor, industry, commerce or even the underworld itself.

Under the Organized Crime Control Act this would give the government the power to dissolve an organization once it's proven to be dominated by such a pattern of racketeering.

In a Damon Runyonesque approach the Brooklyn, N.Y., strike force went to a grand jury recently and began attempting to prove that the so-called "Colombo family" of the alleged Mafia is dominated by racketeering.

And why not use this tactic? The "family" is an organization. It matters not whether it is bound together by blood oath or common action in gambling, loan sharking or labor rackets.

Thus the "family" members can be -- and have been -- called up to testify. They are given immunity. If they balk, they can go to prison. If successful, this can crack the national combine, which still is directed by a "national board" or "commission."

This is vital now. From the highest crime- smashing authorities comes word that the New York network of Mafia families is fanning out. It is heading south through the capital district, certainly into Atlanta, and west by southwest.

And according to the federal authorities, the so- called syndicate is being reorganized in a businesslike fashion by the man who may soon become what the Godfather cult will call the organization's "Mr. Big."

The authorities believe he's the 64- year- old, 5- foot-5 Carmine (Lilo) Galante. Though he left Atlanta penitentiary last Jan. 25, he has allegedly brought the old Joe Bonnano crowd under his control; is planning to absorb the jumbled feuding Colombo mob; merge the leaderless Luchese (Three Fingers Brown) "family"; franchise out "captains" to the still bossless Genovese operation; make his deal with the new chief of the Buffalo- based "family" of the late Stefano Magaddino; make "a meet" with the Chicago syndicate still allegedly led by the legendary Tony Accardo.

This can only be envisioned if there's peace with the reputed boss of bosses, aging Carlo Gambino who really is a rusticating chairman- of- the- board type. Then when Don Carlo passes on to whatever made him, Galante, with ties ranging from Montreal to Sicily, will have it made.

So it's good to know that the strike force chiefs met in a high command conference last week -- and under Henry Petersen will be permitted to fight the Mafia.

THE ULTIMATE BREAKTHROUGH

WASHINGTON -- Several weeks ago I wrote about how the supermarkets raise the prices on their cans and boxes so fast that sometimes there are two or three changes in the cost of an item before you get to the parking lot. I pointed out that some supermarkets actually have stock boys chasing your cart down the aisles stamping your packages before you get to the counter, while other stores have their clerks hidden in ambush behind the stacks of Ritz crackers.

But my friend Joe Krell revealed the latest in grocery price warfare the other day. He called me up and asked me to come over, explaining he couldn't talk on the phone. When he opened the door he looked like a nervous wreck.

"Let's walk outside," he said, "the house could be bugged."

We strolled down the street. "Something's happening," he said. "The other day I bought a can of tuna. It was marked 55 cents. I carried it home and put it in the food closet. When I took it out the next day it was marked 63 cents. I thought I had made a mistake in the original price, but to be certain I put it back in the closet. The next day the price on the can read 70 cents."

Now I must say Krell is a very sober fellow and to my knowledge would not make something like this up. He obviously had gotten several cans of tuna mixed up. I suggested this but he shook his head. "No way. This mornint I took out the can and it said 2/$1.50. I'm telling you something's fishy about this."

Krell told me at first he thought it was just the tuna can, but to make sure he started checking other grocery items on his shelves. Sure enough they increased by 2 or 3 cents a day. "Even the stuff I put in the freezer changed price overnight. I bought some steak for $2.50 a pound -- the next night, when I took it out to thaw it, it was marked $3.25."

I thought about it. Krell probably was suffering from some sort of hallucination brought about by exorbitant food prices, but at the same time the situation was worth investigating.

We sought out Thurston Craven, a friend who works as a chemist for the government on top-secret work. When we told him the story he whistled. "It sounds like they've made a breakthrough on the APPS."

"APPS?" I queried.

"Auto- Progressive Price Stamping. It's the ultimate weapon in price- marking techniques," Craven said. "We knew the supermarkets have been doing research in this field for some time. There has been so much human error in marking cans and boxes and packages that they've had a crash program to find ways for the prices to change themselves. But we didn't expect them to develop anything like it until 1979."

Craven asked Krell to bring over the can of tuna. By the time Krell returned and gave it to Craven, the can was marked "Special $1.20."

Craven put it under his microscope. "Hmmnn." he said, "just as I thought. It's on a laser-beam cycle. You see the prices are marked with a high ultraviolet ink which disappears and reappears according to the intensity of light.

"All the super market has to do is set the laser on a cycle and the price will go up progressively any amount the store wants.

"The only mystery for me is that the prices should only change in the store. They shouldn't keep changing in Krell's closet and freezer. Let me ask you this, Krell. Do you have a television set in the kitchen?"

"Yes, of course," said Krell.

"Well, that explains it," said Craven. "The cathode tube is having the same effect on the marked prices as a laser beam. I would suggest you take the TV out of the kitchen."

Craven added, "And one more thing, Krell. I wouldn't talk to anyone about this. If the supermarkets find out you know about Auto- Progressive Price Stamping, your life won't be worth a 1-cent ham- hock sale."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: More on the Mafia

WASHINGTON — In an earlier column, we began the confessions of Eugene Ayotte, better known inside the Mafia as "Johnny A," who has been hiding under a false identity since he defected to the Justice Dept. six years ago.

He has talked to us at length about his life in the Detroit Mafia. We have also obtained confidential FBI reports of his interviews with agents. His revelations provide the most dramatic account of Mafia operations since the late Joe Valachi ripped the veil of secrecy from this sinister society in 1963.

Ayotte has described a netherworld of violence, corruption and profit. It is a world ruled by a few overlords who command the unquestioning loyalty of their criminal subjects. The penalty for disobedience is death. It is a strange mystic world whose roots are sunk deep in Sicily but whose methods are those of modern America.

Johnny A, a swarthy, handsome man with a Runyouesque flair, was a swindler. He specialized in arranging burglaries and burnings for shady businessmen who would collect the insurance and sometimes a share of the fenced goods. He also helped the Mafia take over failing businesses.

He pressed the proprietor of a Detroit lounge to cash his bad checks, for example, until the poor fellow went broke. Then the Mafia stepped in, bailed him out and took over the bar.

In short order, the Mafia managers set up a poker table in the cellar and began raking in profits from both booze and gambling. The lounge began attracting celebrities, among them Detroit Lions football stars Wayne Walker and Mike Lucci, who got into a scuffle. The publicity frightened the Mafia, which hastily abandoned its interest in the lounge.

Ayotte's most prodigal business venture -- a classic example of how the Mafia operates a legitimate business -- landed him in the slammer for bankruptcy fraud.

With $13,500 handed to him by Detroit's mob enforcer Mike Rubino, Johnny A opened a furniture store. From the beginning, he said, it was to be a "bust- out joint" -- that is , a business which would be milked and then bankrupted, leaving all the creditors with empty hands.

Ayotte opened a bank account with the $13,500, wangled a registration license from the city and provided Dun and Bradstreet with a cock- and- bull story to impress creditors. Then Ayotte and his Mafia partners spent the $13,500 on furniture.

The cash purchase and the Dun and Bradstreet rating enabled Ayotte to order around $300,000 worth of furniture on credit. The "Palm Furniture Company," as Ayotte called his new establishment, developed a curious clientele.

During the daytime, not many customers disturbed Johnny A and his friends who passed the time playing gin rummy. But at night, the store swarmed with Mafia customers who rolled up in their big Cadillacs.

"There would always be 20 or 30 people ... taking everything out the doors nightly," alleges a confidential FBI memo based on Ayotte's statements. Some customers paid nothing, others left token payments.

The friendly furnituremen continued their largesse for three months until they almost ran out of furniture. Ayotte recalls that a Michigan prison warden picked out a shortwave radio for himself and a tape recorder as a graduation gift for his daughter. Both items were delivered to him at the prison by Rubino's personal bodyguard.

Ayotte also told the FBI that a police inspector, the late Paul Sheridan, "just about furnished his entire home with goods taken from the Palm."

Some of the biggest bosses in gangdom shopped at the Palm. Furniture deliveries were made to their fashionable Grosse Point home in the dead of night. Others dropped by the store to pick up refrigerators, air conditioners, Italian provincial furniture or whatever struck their fancy. None of them were properly billed.

Johnny A's customers read like Who's Who in the Rogues Gallery -- Angelo Meli, Joseph "Joe Whip" Triglia, Anthony "Tony Long" Cimini, William "Black Bill" Tocco, John "Papa John" Priziola and even the Don of Dons, Joseph Zerilli.

One gangland intimate, not in on the secret, looked at the disappearing merchandise and commented loudly: "I don't think this store is being run right."

The Justice Dept. thought so, too. Federal prosecutors eventually shut down the Palm and locked up Johnny A.

MAFIA- GO- ROUND: Here are some more of Eugene Ayotte's Mafia stories: Toledo's most notorious Mafia Don Anthony "Whitey" Besase, keeps a "beautiful shrine of the Virgin Mary with running water and all and flowers in his backyard ... During the Senate crime hearings in 1963, the mob nervously ordered all numbers money called in. One hood, Dominic "Sparky" Corrado, was $150,000 short. He had to make good by selling his house and mortgaging his brother's home ... The Marlon Brando movie, "The Godfather," accurately portrays the Mafia's close ties with politicians and entertainers, according to Ayotte. A gangland promoter, named Herman "Turk" Prujansky, hobnobbed with five top singers, several movie stars and a famous New York columnist, said Ayotte...

Lawmen who keep Mafia figures under surveillance are known, in underworld parlance, as "baby sitters" ... The Mafia goes by many names -- Unione Siciliano, the Black Hand, the Syndicate, the Organization. But to many insiders, it is the Cosa Nostra, "our thing" ... So many Mafia bigwigs wound up with expensive farmland outside Detroit that they jokingly began to call each other "Zeke."

District Governor urges new spirit for Rotarians

Sikeston Rotarians and Rotary Anns (club members' wives) were visited by Southeast Missouri District 609 Gov. F. R. "Rock" Wilferth of Cape Girardeau Monday night at Ramada Inn.

Wilferth brought greetings from Rotary International President Bill Robbins of Florida. Wilferth noted that the Rotary organization, which has clubs in over 150 nations, is the oldest service club organization in the world.

"Revival of the Rotary Spirit" is the theme for the world organization, and Gov. Wilferth's theme for the local area is "A New Spirit in District 609".

Wilferth said that the strength of the Rotary organization is the dedication of its members. As an example, he said, "Man first gets into Rotary, then Rotary gets into the man."

Wilferth and Sikeston club president Ken Williams presided over a club assembly, in which various service chairmen reported plans for service activities during the year.

Lewis Blanton, club service chairman, reported that the club is experiencing regular informational programs concerning various activities in the community's schools, hospital, fire and police departments, sheltered workshop, Heritage House, Chamber of Commerce and others.

Community service chairman Ed Scheu reported the club's assistance in such community activities as Boy and Girl Scouts, Farmers Recognition Night, scholarships for Southeast Missouri State University, Service Above Self Awards to graduating students of the local high school, Little League baseball sponsorship and Boys and Girls State sponsorship.

Harley Barnes, vocational service chairman, said club members are being used in career education in the local schools and an Employe Recognition Day is planned.

International service chairman Fred Koch reported the club's support of Rotary Foundation, which supports exchange students with other nations, provides grants for study in foreign universities and sponsors teams from varied professions on educational visits to this country and foreign lands. Rotary District 609 is sponsoring a team from India later this year.

Williams summed up the major objectives for the year as:

Encourage and foster the Rotary ideal of Service Above Self in the community, provide four scholarships, sponsor a circus in the Spring, help with the Sikeston Farmer's Recognition Banquet and sponsor Little League baseball team, Boys State, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, student guests and Service Above Self awards to seniors.

Fund- raising activities will include: the annual Rotary Chili Day, Rotary Auction and using the Rotary Club popcorn trailer in various community activities during the year.

PSC official calls line duplication idea ridiculous

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A member of the Missouri Public Service Commission has called a proposal of electric cooperative officials to end line duplication around the state "ridiculous," accusing the Association of Missouri Electrical Cooperatives of completely changing its positions on coop regulation by the PSC.

During a hearing Wednesday on duplication of electrical service between Rural Electrification Administration cooperatives and private utilities, officials of the cooperative association said they did not want regulation by the Public Service Commission.

Atty. Eugene E. Andereck, representing the group, contended that laws currently on the books, if implemented, could end distribution line duplication in rural areas.

But Commissioner Willard Reine, admitting that he had viewed problems of the cooperatives favorably in the past, cited the association's strong support for legislation the past two years that would have brought REA coops under PSC regulation.

He then said the "180-degree turnaround" in the association's position on regulation had lost his support "and there is nothing you can say to change my mind."

While agreeing that the commission has no regulatory power over cooperatives but only over private utilities, Andereck claimed that the association supported such legislation only because it appeared the only way open at the time to solve the duplication problem.

He contended that if the commission used its power to control the territories of private utilities, which commissions have historically failed to do, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which has jurisdiction over cooperatives, would control territories of the coops so that any duplication would be avoided.

Joseph Burke, representing one of the state's private utilities, claimed, however, "basic fairness dictates that all suppliers and all facilities be regulated" by the PSC.

The commission was told that the federal regulations prohibit REA coops from bringing lines into an area that already has electrical service, but association officials claimed those rules are not being enforced and coops have gone into already serviced areas.

"Duplication by electrical cooperatives has been a matter of survival and has been done to counteract the encroachment of the private power companies," said Bill Ramsey, an association board member.

Commissioner Charles J. Fain pointed out, however, that there is nothing the PSC could do, under current statutes, to halt an electrical cooperative from going into an area already served by a private utility, and after citing Andereck's claim that the federal government does not enforce its regulations against duplication, he said:

"You're the first lawyer I've ever heard say a federal agency does not enforce its own rules. The Department of Agriculture would deny that. Your position is completely untenable. It's idealistic."

Reine added, "I think this whole theory is ridiculous.'

The PSC was charged two years ago by the legislature to make a complete investigation of the problem of wasteful line duplication, which all parties involved have agreed exists.

Briefs on the legal aspects of the matter will be submitted to the commission next month.

Clerk says nothing unusual in audit report

CARUTHERSVILLE "There is nothing unusual, out of the ordinary, or illegal in the audit of this county," Pemiscot County Clerk John Alford says.

The county clerk refers to a release by State Auditor John Ashcroft concerning a three- year audit of Pemiscot County through last December.

"I have read the audit report as it was printed in the Kennett paper and at first glance it could give the impression that something illegal had been done by the county court," Alford said. "That is not the case."

The report said:

"Unauthorized interfund borrowing and lack of effective investment policy has been discovered in the operations of the Pemiscot County Court, State Auditor John Ashcroft said today.

"The audit report showed a deficit balance of more than $80,000 in the federal revenue sharing account, representing interfund borrowing, which is not allowed by law."

The county clerk explained the situation:

"What happened was this: We had $210,000 that matured Jan. 15 in revenue sharing funds in certificate of deposit in the bank last Dec. 31. The court felt if we took this amount off of deposit early we would lose a large amount of interest.

"So we left the money on deposit, thus creating a deficit in this one particular account. This deficit lasted just seven days because, on Jan. 7, the county received a revenue sharing check in the amount of $104,000."

There was nothing out of the ordinary about the move, Alford stated. As a matter of fact, the county court was acting in the best interests of the people of Pemiscot County by not allowing the county to lose the interest that was brought in when the amount was left in certificate of deposit, he said.

"The audit was just like any other audit," Clerk Alford remarked. "When the audit was brought back to us, we were told we were about average as compared with other counties in Missouri."

Stretch the paycheck by following money-saving tips

By WANDA ATCHLEY

If the spiraling cost of living is keeping you up nights and you find money spent for luxuries last year must now be spent for necessities, don't panic. Just take a deep breath and remember that you are not alone. Thousands of housewives are now faced with the problem of stretching the paycheck to cover just the most necessary expenditures.

I have personally declared war against inflation and have set out to beat the system or at least learn to cope with it. During the past few months, I have read and clipped every tip offering ways to stretch money. After putting these tips to a test, some have proved to be real money savers.

Since fall house - cleaning time is here, why not hold a yard sale? Do you have unused items in the attic? A silver tray you've always hated? They can add up to moneymakers for you and bargains for other people.

Speaking of fall, now's the time to think of winter's heating bills. Is your thermostat working properly. Can you set it at a low temperature to keep the pipes in working order without overheating the house? A warm day in September is a better time to check it than a cold day in October or November.

If you have a lot of clothes that need cleaning, you may take them to a coin-operated cleaning machine where you can do it yourself and save money.

Do you need linens? If you can't wait until the after Christmas white sales, buy seconds or irregulars. No will will ever notice, and the store won't tell your mother -in-law.

Why not check the local bakery for day-old products. The prices will be lower, and "day old" is far from stale.

I have found that discount prices at some stores are better than sale prices at others. Search for the stores that sell clothing, appliances or even aspirin at a discount.

Don't wait until you are completely out of an item before replacing it. A hurried trip to the corner drug store may turn out to be far more expensive than a regular trip to a discount store.

The last and perhaps most important tip is don't drive all over town looking for a bargain or sale. Gasoline is too expensive for this kind of traveling. Check the stores first by phone or through newspaper ads and then plan to make fewer stops each time you use your car. The energy crisis may be behind us, but the gasoline prices which accompanied it are still around.

Former fashions, fads discussed and modeled

RISCO — Former fashions and fads were the program topics of the Rural Independent Club's meeting Sept. 12 at the home of Mrs. Raymond May. The program was presented by Mrs. Floyd Smelser and Mrs. Don Landers, who narrated the event as home movies were made.

Various reproductions and replicas of favorite styles from the past included the hoop skirt, lavish "dagging" trim, the Grecian empire, crinolines, richly trimmed petticoats, the dirt- dragging trains, the bustle, the corseted "hourglass" figure, the hobble skirt and the flapper styles.

These were modeled by several club members as interesting facts were stated concerning each particular period of time, along with popular tunes of each era.

Costumed dolls were displayed, along with color photographs of interesting antique costumes which are on display at the Malden museum. Among the authentically old items displayed were quilts and coverlets well over 100 years old, gowns and camisoles of the early 1900s which were accented by handmade trim and a 30- year- old crepe paper costume.

During the business period, members responded to roll call by stating their favorite hem length.

The annual book auction was postponed until a Nov. 7 luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Kenny Carlisle.

Members were reminded to deliver all Betty Crocker coupons collected for the Cerebral Palsy drive to the Risco post office or to Mrs. Mary Harris. Mrs. Royce Fortner was named chairman of the club's adopted trial program of RIF (Reading is Fundamental.)

During the social period which followed, the hostess served refreshments.

Others attending were: Mrs. Tom Pearson, Mrs. P. C. Crouthers, Mrs. G. H. Coffer, Mrs. Verly McCord, Mrs. Gene Lancaster, Mrs. Jerry Pearson, Mrs. Paul Cummins, Mrs. R. E. Dockrey, Mrs. R. T. McGee, Mrs. Mike McGee and Amy, Mrs. Leon Hickerson and daughter, Mrs. Emily Applegate, Mrs. Lowell Kirksey, Teresa McGee, Mrs. Charles Kirksey and Jennifer, Mrs. Kenny Carlisle and Sally Grant.

Birthday party set by Sunlighters group

The September birthday party for residents of the Sikeston Convalescent Center, sponsored by the Sunlighters Volunteer Group, is scheduled at 2 p.m. Sept. 25.

The announcement of the party date was made at a Sunlighters meeting held Tuesday at the center.

Mrs. Mildred Canedy, soloist, and Mrs. Mayme Jean Poage, pianist, will present the program.

President Margaret Byrd commented on the program presented for the August birthday party for residents. Featured at that party was Mrs. Joyce Jordan of Lilbourn, a ventriloquist who was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Phoebe Rowe, and Susan Johnson, granddaughter of Sunlighter Virginia McGaher, who played viola selections.

A vote of thanks was extended to the administrative staff of the center for the Sunlighter emblems, instigated by Mrs. Imogene Treece and designed and embroidiered by Mrs. Helen Howle.

Tentative programs for upcoming monthly birthday parties were announced. The Bill Volner square dance group will return in November. The December party will feature a "chalk-talk", picture sketching exhibition, with musical background, by two Cape Girardeau artists.

Mrs. Judy Douglas, recreational director, provided Sunlighters a sketch and measurements for lap robes needed by the residents. The robes will be made by the ecumenical sewing group. She also asked for ideas on craft projects, which some residents would enjoy and especially for ideas on Christmas favors to be given to patients at Sikeston Regional Diagnostic Clinic.

George Stevens, administrator of the center, spoke briefly about matters of policy and asked for written resumes from each Sunlighter on personal impressions of the volunteer's role and for any suggestions pertaining to service to residents.

The Sunlighters October meeting is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 8. Each member is asked to bring at least one prospective member.

Meetings

THURSDAY

American Legion Auxiliary will meet at the Heritage House at 6:30 p.m. for a potluck supper.

Births

RICHARDS -- Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Richards of Benton are parents of their third child, second daughter, who was born at 11:22 a.m. Sept. 3 at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. The girl weighed eight pounds five and one-half ounces and has been named Tresa Mae.

Mrs. Richards is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hillman of Illmo. Richards is the son of Mrs. Alta Richards of Haigler, Neb.

ROBEY — Mr. and Mrs Tom Robey, 1606 E. Kathleen Ave., are parents of their first child, a daughter born at 9:45 a.m. Monday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds 10 ounces and has been named Leslie Ann.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McConnell, Route Three. Maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McConnell, 118 Third St., who became great-grandparents for the first time, and Mrs. Bertha Craig, 113 Fourth St.

Robey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robey, 314 Helen St., and is employed by the State Highway Department.

TAYLOR -- Mr. and Mrs. Richard Taylor of Oran Route One are parents of their first child, a daughter who was born at 10:15 a.m. Sept. 3 at Southeast Missouri Hospital. The girl weighed four pounds, five ounces and has been named Julie Ann.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Barbara Sue Hope, duaghter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hope of Jackson. Taylor is employed by Jeffe DeWitt of Sikeston as a truck driver and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Yewell Taylor of Oran.

Napkin folding methods shown

Mrs. Robert Pennington demonstrated eight classic methods of folding napkins during her presentation, "On Any Day", before 17 members who attended Tuesday night's meeting of Tau Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the home of Mrs. Gene Collins, 710 Mimosa Drive.

Mrs. Pennington also discussed the history of the fine art of napkin folding.

Mrs. Allen Crites was in charge of an auction of gifts which members had brought home from their vacations this summer.

Mrs. Weldon Sanderson was co- hostess for the meeting.

Because she prohibited the serving of alcoholic beverages at all White House functions, Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes earned the nickname "Lemonade Lucy".

Customer airs gripes about 'check-out dames'

Dear Ann Landers: I'm itching to reply to "Veteran of Supermarket Tangles." That check -out dame had lots to say about rude customers. Her list of complaints was plenty complete. I wonder if she is aware that the customers may have a few gripes from the other side of the counter. Having just come back from the supermarket, they are fresh in my mind. Here's a little advice on how to make a shopper's life miserable:

1. Ring up the items so fast that the cash register sounds like an adding machine. It's fun for the shopper to discover, after she gets home, that she paid $1.69 for a 69- cent box of cereal. She then has the enjoyable task of returning to the store for a refund. The walk will be good for her.

2. Throw the canned goods down on the counter as if you were bowling. With a little luck you can break a few eggs and squash a loaf of bread.

3. Wait until the 5 o'clock rush to count your money and change the cash register tapes. It's a thrill to stand in line and watch you fumbling around for half an hour. Every housewife adores shopping and hates to leave the store.

4. Pack everything in one big bag. When the customer gets out of the store, the bottom will fall out and she'll get another good look at everything she bought. It will give her an opportunity to see she has everything she needs. Also, it's wonderful exercise to chase cans down the street.

I can think of plenty more, but this will do for now. Thanks for a chance to speak my piece. --The Customer Hasn't Been Right Since World War Two.

Dear World War: Your letter was my laugh for the day. Thanks a heap for putting your gripes down on paper. It's a great way to unload your hostility, and I'm not kidding.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband blames me because we have no friends. He says I am too quiet and people thing I'm stupid.

The real reason we have no friends is because He doesn't shut his mouth. The man is an authority on everything. He turns every conservation into the Spanish Inquistition, asking questions about things that are none of his business. He loves to get into people's personal lives, and is a bigger gossip than any woman I know.

What can I do to get him to see this? --The Mouse

Dear M: I know the type. Three mouths and no ears. I suggest that you discuss the "no friends" problem with a counselor. If the counselor is halfway bright, he'll get the picture early and hopefully get the message across to Mr. Yacketyyack.

Dear Ann: I am six months pregnant and very happy about it. My husband and I have been trying to have a baby for two years. The problem is that we've been separated for three months. He wants a divorce. We've been fighting for over a year. After he learned I was pregnant he took off.

My question is, what should I do about birth announcements? It seems like a stupid question, but I am stumped. I know I'll be having this baby alone. Any suggestions? --Mama

Dear Mama: Why send announcements? Your close friends will know you had the baby and the others will learn of it eventually. I have always regarded announcements of any kind as "invoices."

If you insist on sending birth announcements, ignore the fact that you separated. Your husband is the baby's father and that's the only thing that matters.

French woman is visiting Lilbourn

LILBOURN — Miss Babette Frigeni of Lyon, France, a large city near the Alps Mountains, is visiting Lilbourn High School.

Miss Frigene, 20, who arrived at Lilbourn Aug. 28, is working as an aide in the French classes at the school. She will remain in Lilbourn until the end of October.

Miss Frigeni has been placed in Lilbourn by the Amity Institute, an organization in California which places foreign aides in schools in the United States.

"It is interesting to come to a small town in the United States like Lilbourn after studying about all the large cities in the United States, like New York and Chicago," she remarked.

Last year, Miss Frigeni spent nine months in school in Minnesota outside St. Paul. In June she worked in a language camp in Montana and in August she toured the United States from New York to Los Angeles with her parents and other French people.

She has also visited England, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Tunisia, Austraia, Turkey and Israel.

Miss Frigeni is very interested in languages and she speaks English, French and Spanish.

She has expressed an interest in speaking and showing slides to civic groups, and may be reached at Lilbourn High School.

Committee recommends application be submitted

MALDEN — The bootheel's Resource Conservation and Development Committee recommended Monday that the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission submit an application to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for federal funds under the Resource Conservation and Development (RCD) program.

If the Bootheel's RCD program is accepted for funding, the Soil Conservation Service will assign a man to the local office and make the area eligible for SCS grants, says Ronald Yersak, BRPC planning director.

Elmer Kinkade of Bernie, chairman of the Bootheel's RCD Committee, said that the program will play a vital role in improving drainage, erosion and sedimentation problems in the Bootheel.

Each county may experience individual problems, he said, but only through joint county and state cooperation can the problems be corrected.

Before an area can qualify for funds under the RCD program, Yersak said a Resource, Conservation and Development Committee had to be formed for the area, bylaws adopted, officers elected and a local RCD program endorsed.

This is what happened at Monday night's meeting to form a Bootheel committee, Yersak said.

Officers elected, in addition to chairman Kinkade, include Judge D. J. Merideth Jr. of Caruthersville, vice chairman, and K. M. Streeter of Painton, secretary-treasurer.

Once the program receives funding, all drainage districts, municipalities and counties in the Bootheel area will be eligible to receive funds, Kinkade said.

Dexter firemen answer 2 calls

DEXTER — Firemen answered two calls Wednesday night, according to Fire Chief Al Banken. The first call came at 8:05 p.m. to an oven fire at 240 Alice St. The second, at 1:45 a.m. today, was to John Gray's Pool Hall where a skillet of grease had ignited.

No damage was reported from either fire.

Clayton leads Murray

Don Clayton

MURRAY, Ky. — Malden, Missouri's Don Clayton was named to the Kodak Division II All-American team last season, set a season record in rushing for Murray State and was second in the nation in college- division rushing. He was also Murray's leading scorer with 54 points. His best game was with Morehead State when he had 205 yards. Clayton feels his best game of the season was against Eastern Ky. He had 168 yards before being injured on the second play of the fourth quarter and sat out the rest of the game.

Racer coach Bill Furgerson says he knows of no one more deserving of All-American honors than Clayton. "Don has his best games against the best teams we play," Furgerson said. Clayton came back from an injury, to make All-American of which doctors said would end his football career.

Clayton, a prep All-American at Malden, was a three year starter -- a tight end as a sophomore and a tailback as a junior and senior. He scored 198 points as a senior and 121 as a junior. He played linebacker on defense and made the all-conference team at both positions. Clayton was All-American as a senior and honorable mention all-state as a junior.

Clayton is a senior this year and Coach Bill Furgerson is expecting him to lead the team in scoring again. Don is 6'2" 195 pound tailback. He is one of the fine running backs in the nation. He's extremely strong, a fine blocker and pass receiver, and does whatever he's assigned to do.

Coach Furgerson is counting heavily on these players to lead Murray State to the Ohio Valley Championship. Furgerson isn't that optimistic, but his opposing coaches have picked his team to beat for the championship. Charlie Carpenter is an All- Ohio conference first team offensive guard. Carpenter is 6-3, 243 pounds and will captain the Racers this year. Quarterback Tom Pandolfi was at quarterback every minute Murray was on offense last year. He was second in the conference in passing and total offense. Tom is a 6-2, 212 lb. senior from Spotswood, N.J., and looked very polished during spring drills.

Mark Hickman, the Racer, Safety was named to the All- Ohio Valley conference team last year as a sophomore. He calls the Racer pass coverage. Joe Echert will be playing a different position than the one he played last year when he was named to the All*Ohio Valley conference team at defensive end. Joe will be playing middle linebacker this year. He will be an alternate captain this year.

Murray's offensive unit was hit severely by graduation last year but it's defensive unit returns almost in tact. The defense was the second best in the conference last year. The defense will not be as big as last year but quicker. Coach Bill Hina's biggest defensive problem will be lack of depth in the line. The Racer secondary should be strong, experienced, and deep.

MSU won their second game of the season Saturday beating Western Carolina 10-3 with a tremendous defensive effort.

"We won because we had a super defensive effort," Murray State head coach Bill Furgerson said. "It was our best defensive game since we beat Eastern 7-3 two seasons ago," defensive coach Bill Hina said.

"It was the first game my offense has been held without a touchdown since I've been here," (six years) Western Carolina coach Bob Waters said, "and I still think this is the best offensive group I've had."

The Racer's 10-3 win over the Catamounts was their second of the season and sends them into the Ohio Valley Conference competition against Morehead next Saturday with a 2-0 record.

"Our defense held two of the best pass receivers in the nation (Jerry Gains and Eagle Moss) to only six receptions and only two of them were for long yardage," Furgerson said, "and both our scores came after interceptions which gave the offense excellent position."

The Racers took a 7-3 lead in the second quarter after linebacker Don Hettich intercepted a Cat pass on the 37- yard line and completed their scoring with a 25- yard field goal in the third quarter after defensive back Bruce Walker intercepted a pass on the Cat 16.

Several promising Catamount drives were shut off by the Murray defense which intercepted five passes and recovered one fumble.

The defensive star was Hettich who had 8 tackles, 15 assists, and 2 interceptions. Linebacker David McDonald had 7 tackles and 3 assists, end Chuck Wempe 6 and 10, back Al Martin 6 and 5, end Alf Caldwell 6 and 3, tackle Jay Waddle 5 and 9. Walker had two interceptions and McDonald one. Martin recovered the Cat fumble.

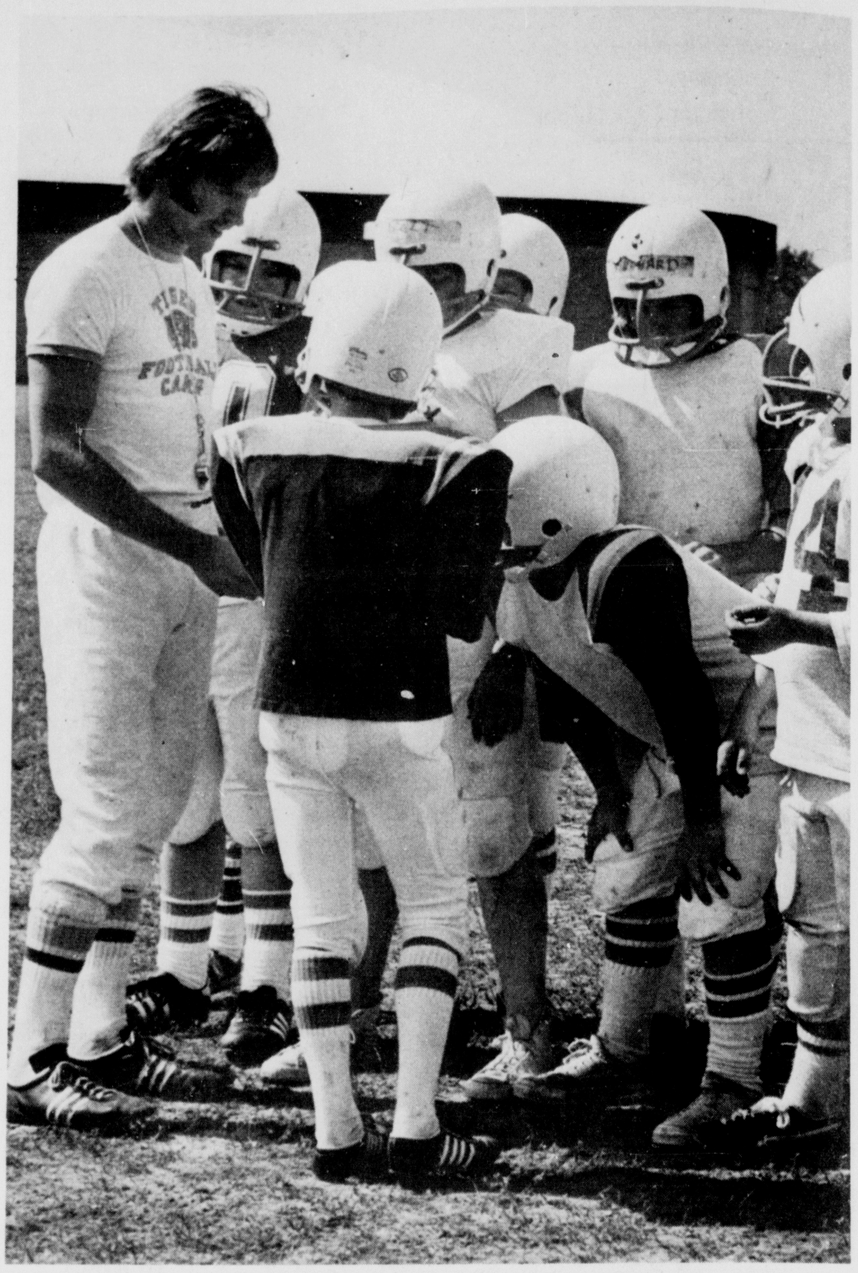
Waddle, Wempe, and tackle Bob West kept a tough rush on the Western Carolina passer throughout the game.

Racer offensive stars were quarterback Tom Pandolfi, tailback Don Clayton, and kicker Steve Martin. Pandolfi completed 12 of 21 passes for 120 yards and a touchdown. Clayton rushed for 84 yards in 20 carries and caught a pass for 18 yards. Martin had a field goal and an extra point, averaged 43.6 on 7 punts, and put all his kickoffs into the endzone.

Fullback B. F. Behrendt was the leading receivers with four for 17 yards. Tight end Doug Sanders caught 3 for 39 yards and a touchdown, and wide receiver Gary Brumm caught 2 for 25 yards.

Morehead, 1-0 after its 14-12 victory over Marshall Saturday, has a big offensive line, a pair of outstanding running backs, a great kicking game, and a seasoned quarterback, according to Furgerson. "We're really a small team," he said, "and I expect their size to give us lots of problems. They beat Marshall for the first time in three years and our scouts report they have a solid, well-rounded team."

The Murray- Morehead clash will be at Morehead at 7:30 p.m.



Steve Ferrell maps out strategy with his Jaycee Little League football prospects during drills in preparation for Saturday's season opener. Games will be played at Middle School.

Big week in MIAA

ST. CHARLES — Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football team will be out to prove this Saturday they are as good on the road as at home. All schools except Northwest will be away this week.

Three of the four teams playing host won last week, while two lost. Northwest Missouri State blanked Kansas State - Pittsburg 13-0. Lincoln University of Jeff. City won 2-0 from Langston College by blocking a punt and recovering in the end- zone.

Southwest Missouri State defeated Kansas State - Emporia 24-13. University of Missouri - Rolla handed Missouri Western a 15-7 defeat and evened it's record to 1-1.

Harding College spoiled Northeast's opening 21-16 and SEMO lost to Delta State of Louisiana 19-3.

FOOTBALL

SHREVEPORT, La. — The World Football league has purchased the financially troubled Houston Texans and has moved the team to Shreveport, La.

Game postponed

The Southern Division clash between East Prairie and Chaffee scheduled Friday night, has been postponed until Monday night at 7:30 p.m.

Long ride back

CAPE GIRARDEAU — It was a long drive back Sunday morning for the Southeast Missorui State University football team after the Indians dropped their season opener in Cleveland, Miss., Saturday night (Sept. 14) to Delta State College, 1903.

But the Tribe went right to work Monday to correct the deficiencies which resulted in the loss in hopes of a better showing Saturday night (Sept. 21) against Missouri Southern. The game will be at 7:30 in Joplin.

Jim Lohr blamed the defeat which spoiled his debut as a college head coach on mental errors and a lack of execution, especially on the part of the offense. He was also disappointed in his team's kicking game.

The defense played pretty well, he said, although "we had a breakdown on two or three plays."

Lohr said the Indian offense had been executing well in practice and added he was unable to explain the unit's showing against Delta State, although he conceded the Deltans had a "very tough defense."

"We went down there intent on winning, we tried very hard, and we played very hard, but we didn't play well," said the coach.

Oepning night jitters might have been part of the reason for the poor performances, Lohr said, but he declared, "That's the weakest excuse in the world."

Southeast Missouri State's new quarterback, junior college All- American Rick Wieser who threw for more than 1,500 yards in 1973, was able to complete only nine of 29 passes. And Delta State defenders picked off two of Wieser's aerials in the fourth quarter, returned them for long yardage, and set up the two touchdowns which sealed the victory for the Statesmen.

"Our timing wasn't there on our passing game, and our protection of the passer broke down," said Lohr.

"I felt at the half that we were going to win the football game," the Indian coach said. "We were a step away from going all the way two or three times. I felt we could make the necessary adjustments. But we didn't."

Brock continues assault on bases

PITTSBURGH (AP) — No. 110 came neatly and cleanly for Lou Brock. He didn't even slide.

The St. Louis Cardinal outfielder extended his season base-stealing record Wednesday night with a successful theft in his only attempt in a 4-1 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After Brock reached first on a forceout in the fifth, Pirate catcher Manny Sanguillen made an attempted pickoff throw on pitcher Jim Rooker's first toss to the plate.

Brock broke for second on the next pitch, and he was safe standing up even though Rooker pitched out to Sanguillen.

In the third inning, Brock took second on a wild pitch after Rooker had made five straight throws to first.

Coulson promoted

Steve Coulson was promoted to Syracuse of the AAA International League a Farm Club of the New York Yankees but the better league hasn't been to his liking as he only had four hits in 13 at bats for a lowly .174 batting average.

Randy Smith of Arbyrd won his only decision of the week and now has a 15-6 record at Salinas, California of the California A League. Smith ERA is 3.19.

Red Birds defense falters in 4-1 loss

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals took the just-another-ballgame, get-emnext-time approach after losing, but down the hall the Pittsburgh Pirates sighed with relief.

"This was a must game for us," Manager Danny Murtaugh said after Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 4-1 Wednesday night to move within 1 1/2 games of the first-place Cardinals in the National League East.

The Pirates had stumbled to six straight losses previously and the Cardinals had won that many in a row, including a 2-1 triumph over Pittsburgh in 13 innings Tuesday night.

"The pressure was definitely on us," Pirate lefty Jim Rooker said after stopping the Cardinals with a complete-game six-hitter.

"A loss tonight would have put us 3 1/2 games back, and we would really have had our work cut out for us," echoed Al Oliver, who backed Rooker with two doubles and a pair of RBI's.

The Cardinals, who had beaten Pittsburgh in 10 of 15 previous encounters, didn't buy the notion that another victory would have been the coup de grace for the Pirates.

"No way," said Cardinal shortstop Mike Tyson, who made two errors in the fourth inning when the Pirates took the lead to stay with two runs off loser Lynn McGlothen.

"We still have to keep winning. There's no way we could have wrapped it up with a win tonight," Tyson added.

"Everybody was talking about that game we won last night like it was the end of the season," noted Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst.

"But that was only one ballgame, and if you're going to talk about one ballgame you may as well talk about the first game of the season," he added.

Prior to their six-game slide, the Pirates had led by as many as 2 1/2 games over the Cardinals.

Joe Torre, whose first-inning double produced the only Cardinal run, noted that pitfalls await any team that gets too comfortable with a lead.

"You really do have to play them one at a time, and you can't be looking forward to this series or that series," he said.

Torre's RBI-double in the first scored Ted Sizemore, who had singled and taken second on a walk to Ted Simmons.

"When I gave up that run it made me try all the harder," said Rooker. "I knew McGlothen is the kind of pitcher who might only need one run to win."

Oliver opened Pittsburgh's two-run fourth with a double. Willie Stargell then hit a grounder that was deflected by McGlothen and fielded by Tyson, whose errant throw eluded Torre at first and enabled Oliver to score.

Stargell was thrown out at second on the play, but Dave Parker followed with a single and took third on a single by Manny Sanguillen.

Parker then scored when Ed Kirkpatrick's bloop to center was dropped by Tyson, who nonetheless managed to throw to second for the forceout on Sanguillen.

Cardinal outfielder Lou Brock stole his 110th base in the fifthinning to extend his season record.

The Cardinals close out their three-game series here tonight.

"It's not necessarily a MUST game for us," said Oliver, "but it's a game we had better win."

What's the law?

The case of the departing mother

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ed and Irene's marriage was a bad coupling. The only thing they could agree upon was that they didn't like each other. And, it took them 13 years to agree even about that.

Consequently, by the time they finally obtained a divorce, they had two children. And in their separation agreement it was provided that Irene was to have custody of the children and that they were to be brought up in their parents' religion.

When Irene subsequently remarried, however, she married someone of a different faith. What's more, they planned to move to another state where members of Irene's religion were about as scarace as capitalists in Red China. Consequently, Ed started a court action to gain custody of his children.

"If she is allowed to take our kids out to the boondocks," he complained to a judge, "their religious upbringing will fade into the sunset."

"Being with their mother," was Irene's answer, "is more important than their being brought up in a specific religion. After all, God is everywhere, but a mother isn't."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you take custody away from the departing mother and give it to Ed?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that religious training of a child is an important consideration in awarding custody. And in this case, noted the judge, both Ed and Irene had expressed the desire in their separation agreement that they wished their children to be brought up in their religion. Thus, concluded the judge, custody was best with Ed who lived among members of their faith.

TREATMENT NECESSARY

What can tapeworm do?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — In one of your columns will you talk about the problem of tapeworms. I know an older person who has tapeworms. What will the tapeworm finally do to her? I thought in recent years something might have been found for tapeworms.

Dear Reader — Before writing a syndicated column I had no idea how many people had worms, or at least thought they had worms. There are three types of tapeworms that commonly affect man; the fish tapeworm, the beef tapeworm and the pork tapeworm.

Infection with the fish tapeworm is not uncommon in the New York Jewish housewife. As she makes her own gefilte fish there is a tendency to sample it during preparation, and the incompletely cooked fish is the source. The fish tapeworm can be prevented by freezing fish for 48 hours or more at a temperature of minus 10 degrees centigrade or by being sure the fish is thoroughly cooked before it is eaten.

The fish tapeworm is unique. It absorbs the B-12 in a person's food in the intestine and may cause pernicious anemia. Neither the beef tapeworm nor pork tapeworm does this.

Beef and pork tapeworms may cause some mild, nonspecific abdominal pain and digestive disturbances which may go unnoticed or be attributed to a variety of digestive disorders. Most tapeworms don't cause significent symptoms. This is surprising since a beef tapeworm may be from five to 10 yards long. Rarely the worm may block the duct that drains the pancreas or even block the opening to the appendix and cause appendicitis.

The proper method of prevention is eating meat free of infestation and properly cooked. One should avoid eating raw or rare meat in areas where the beef is infected with tapeworm larvae, or the areas where the beef tapeworm is prominent. This includes Mexico, South America and Russia.

The head of the tapeworm is attached to the wall of the intestine with hooks or suckers. The segments of the long ribbon-like tapeworm literally use the food material within the intestinal tract that's already been processed by our own enzymes to feed itself. The pork tapeworm can also invade the muscles, brain and other organs of the body and cause other problems. This characteristic is not shared with either the fish or beef tapeworm.

While the fish and beef tapeworm segments that are expelled by man are not contagious (you get the infection by eating the fish muscle or beef muscle that contains the larvae), it is true that the pork tapeworm is contagious and a person who has the pork tapeworm can pass on the infected material to another person by failing to observe strict rules of cleanliness.

As you see, there are certain practical points about tapeworms — you should be careful to eat only uninfected fish, beef and pork; second, fish, beef and pork should be properly cooked before it is eaten (this includes in the kitchen); and third, in reference to pork tapeworm, proper sanitation is an absolute must for anyone who is infected, if the problem isn't to be passed on to others. The diagnosis has to be established by examinations, and, finally, if such a problem exists it can, and should, be treated.

Dentists cannot give physicals or certify death

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dentists in Missouri are not authorized to perform complete physical examinations of patients and cannot sign death certificates, an attorney general's opinion said Wednesday.

The opinion said Missouri law limits diagnosis and treatment by dentists to teeth or the mouth, and that dentists are not required to be licensed under the healing arts law, which applies to physicians and surgeons.

If an oral surgeon is licensed by the state Board of the Registration of Healing Arts, he could perform physical exams.

The opinion noted that Pennsylvania and California allow dentists to perform physical examinations. Oklahoma allows dentists to sign a death certificate.

In other opinions issued today, assistant attorneys general said:

—The two-thirds vote requirement for school bond and tax elections does not conflict with the U.S. Constitution or other provisions of the Missouri Constitution.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Sept. 19, the 262nd day of 1974. There are 103 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1881, President James Garfield died in Elberon, N.J., of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Baltimore, Md., on July 2.

On this date —

In 1777, American soldiers in the Revolutionary War won the first battle of Saratoga, N.Y.

In 1846, the British poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning fled the tyranny of her father in London and eloped to Paris with Robert Browning.

In 1870, the French surrendered Versailles to the Germans in the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1928, Americans were introduced for the first time to Mickey Mouse — in the Walt Disney cartoon, "Steamboat Willie."

In 1934, Bruno Hauptmann was arrested in New York and charged with the kidnaping of the baby son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh.

In 1955, President Juan Peron of Argentina was ousted from office after revolts by the army and navy.

Ten years ago: Democratic vice presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey charged that election of Barry Goldwater as president would mean a death sentence to U.S. agriculture.

Five years ago: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the U.N. General Assembly that peace in Vietnam hinged on U.S. renunciation of military and other intervention.

One year ago: Sweden's new king, Carl Gustaf, was formally installed, succeeding his late grandfather.

Adult education classes planned

HOWARDVILLE — The New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District is planning to start adult basic education programs in the district and in the Risco and North Pemiscot districts, if a sufficient number of people are interested. Recruitment is now in progress and the final enrollment and registration will be taken from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Oct. 3.

ABE requires a minimum enrollment per class of eight students, with a recommended enrollment of 12 students per teacher. When average attendance for a period of one month drops below eight students per teacher the class should be consolidated with other classes in the program.

If this is not possible, the class should be discontinued. Primary and intermediate instruction will be available at Lilbourn, Matthews, North Pemiscot, New Madrid, Parma, Portageville, Howardville, Marston and Risco.

Secondary instruction, preparatory to taking the GED Test (high school equivalency test), will be offered at New Madrid High School by Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

Persons interested in attending should contact the unit administrator of the school he or she wishes to attend, or individuals who attended the program last year.

Scheduling will be flexible. However, each class will run for 120 hours. Classes will meet two nights each week.

No charges will be made to students enrolling in this program.

Final registration on Oct. 3 will be taken at the following places:

Lilbourn, high school building; Matthews, cafetorium; New Madrid, Scott Street elementary building; Parma, high school building; Portageville, high school building; Howardville, junior high building; Marston, Foundation School building; North Pemiscot, Ross School cafetorium and cafeteria at Wardell; and Risco, elementary cafeteria.

Evening classes enrollment taken

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Enrollment is now going on for the adult evening classes to be conducted at the Cape Girardeau Vocational School in Cape Girardeau. Some 65 courses are offered and will start next week. Courses vary from skill training for job placement or advancement to courses which are for a personal interest.

Anyone who would like to enroll in any of the adult education classes may phone the school, 335-9619 or 334-3358, stop by the school, 301 N. Clark, or write. Some classes do fill up fast, so adults shoulds sign up as soon as possible. Fees vary for the many courses.

The post- secondary courses, which are approved for veterans benefits, include auto mechanics, refrigeration and air conditioning, radio and TV and secretarial science. The secretarial science class is 25-30 hours per week for 18 weeks while all other post- secondary classes are in session 16 hours per week for 30 to 34 weeks.

For adults 16 years old and over who wish to complete their education, the adult basic education Learning Lab will offer training and preparation for the high school equivalency exam. The course is free to all adults who have not finished high school. A person may enroll at any time throughout the school year. The Learning Lab will be open afternoon, and evenings for the convenience of working adults.

Also continuing this year is the Business Lab. This will allow an adult to enroll at any time during the year and attend classes in the clerical field either day or night, as all instruction is individualized. Classes offered include: typing, shorthand, business machines and key punch.

Numerous classes for improvement of job skills and general interest are also offered.

Bicentennial commission sets meeting Sunday

The Sikeston Bicentennial Commission will hold its next public meeting at 3 p.m. Sunday in Sikeston Activity Center, 201 S. Kingshighway.

The commission was formed at a special public meeting Sept. 8. Officers were elected and three basic themes were chosen for the area celebration to center around.

Officers include Jim Wenneker, chairman; Lynn Colley, vice chairman; Hope Terrell, secretary; and Sharon Bray, coordinator.

Themes chosen were "Heritage '76", to recall our nation's history; "Festival USA", to dramatize the spirit of hospitality and mobility that characterizes the American people; and "Horizons '76", to call for achievement in the future.

Other charter members of the commission are:

Bill Wellborn, Chamber of Commerce executive director; Jim Smith, Chamber of Commerce president; Mary Margaret Abernathy, Beta Sigma Phi Tau Chapter; Carolyn Fulton, 4-H; Peggy Mosley, Council on the Arts; Dottie Moore, Council on the Arts; Mrs. A. B. Alderson; Carolyn Dupont and Janie Felker, Girl Scouts; Lucille Stubblefield; Virginia Weidemann, Meadow Lane Garden Club; and Margaret Harris, Daughters of the American Revolution.

SeMo State to offer class at Sikeston HS

After some initial uncertainty, it was announced today that Southeast Missouri State University will offer the evening course, Assessment of the Exceptional Child, at Sikeston High School during the fall semester.

Dr. Willard J. Morgan, director of school services at Southeast Missouri State, said, "This class has definitely materialized and will be offered because we have received assurance of additional student enrollment."

Enrollment and the first class session will be in the vocational building at Sikeston High School at 6 p.m. Monday, and the class will meet at 6 p.m. each Monday thereafter.

The three- credit course is open to both graduate and undergraduate students. The fee is $51. Horace W. Bedwell will be the instructor.

The course is designed to cover the special diagnostic procedures for children who are exceptional with emphasis on interpretation and application in the educational process.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Morgan at Southeast Missouri State, 334-8211, extension 254.

Equivalency classes offered

GRAY RIDGE — For adults who do not have a high school education and need a diploma to get a better job or to enroll in college, the Gray Ridge DAEOC Center is offering an opportunity to obtain a high school equivalency certificate.

Enrollment for this class will be held Sept. 30 at 7 p.m. in the DAEOC Center. Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation staff members will be present to explain subjects taught and class schedule.

Classes will begin Oct. 7.

The course is without cost to persons who qualify and is an equal opportunity program funded by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation office at Portageville.

For information, contact the DAEOC Center at phone number 283-5490.

Golden Eagles band to perform in Atlanta

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Golden Eagles Marching Band of Southeast Missouri State University will be traveling a great deal during the last days of September.

The 188- member band will journey to Atlanta Saturday aboard five chartered buses and will provide the halftime entertainment Sunday at an Atlanta Falcons' football game.

On Sept. 29, the Golden Eagles will be in St. Louis to present pre- game and halftime shows at a St. Louis Cardinals' football game. The St. Louis appearance is an annual event.

The Golden Eagles, directed by LeRoy Mason, have been invited to present a show for the Falcons on three different occasions, but have been unable to accept until this fall because of conflicts with Southeast Missouri State' home football schedule. The band performs at all Indian home games.

Following Sunday's game, which will be televised in some parts of the country on CBS, the band will return to Cape Girardeau.

When the band is in St. Louis, Paul Lavalle, music director for the Radio City Music Hall in New York City, will be the guest conductor for the pre- game show. He will lead the band as it plays, "The Cardinals Are Charging" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Golden Eagles' halftime show will be a salute to George M. Cohan. For the finale the band will be joined by the McCluer North High School band of St. Louis and, while a huge American flag unfurls, both bands will play Cohan's "You're A Grand Old Flag".

A large group of Southeast Missouri State alumni will observe the band's St .Louis performance. The university's Alumni Association reserved a block of 158 seats for the game, and all have been sold.

ABC newsman to be guest at Jonesboro

JONESBORO — Arkansas State University will host Frank Reynolds, newsman for ABC News in the first in a series of lecture- concert presentations Monday at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Carl R. Reng Center.

Reynolds had 25 years of broadcast journalism experience before joining ABC News in 1968. He was the ABC News White House correspondent for three years.

As correspondent, he accompanied President Lyndon Johnson on major trips and conferences throughout the world, including flights to Vietnam, the summit meeting with Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin and the meeting with the Organization of American States in Uruguay in 1967.

He covered major candidates on the campaign trail during the 1960 and 1964 campaigns, was a floor reporter for the 1964 political conventions, regional reporter for ABC News on election night in 1966 and 1968 and played a key role in the network's coverage of the 1968 conventions.

He was active in coverage of the U.S. space shots, funeral ceremonies for President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Paris peace negotiations and President Richard Nixon's round- the- world trip.

Reynolds was the recipient of the George Foster Peabody Award for television news broadcasting in 1969.

Reynolds was scheduled to speak in the ASU lecture-concert series last fall but canceled to cover Watergate-related news.

The program is free to the general public.

1. In Memoriam

In memory of Donald R. Husk who passed away Sept. 18, 1969.
The light still shines in our home with the presence of the one we love so dear, so we'll never be alone. I'll never, never forget that five years ago on a Sept. night, we were all scared and filled with fright.
To us it was like no tomorrow, because that night he's gone to that wonderful place in the sky, where everyone lives and no one dies.
We love him now and always will, the happiness he brought us, would make your heart stand still.
Missed and loved by
Wife Sue, children Vicken, Maria, Wendy, Darrell, and daughter-in-law Charlotte.

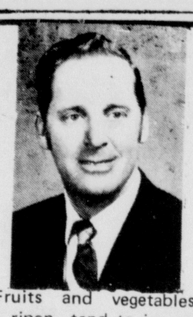
AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER.



Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

Deaths

MILDRED COWAN

DEXTER — Mildred L. Cowan, 67, died at 4:45 a.m. today in Dexter Memorial Hospital.

She was born Oct. 2, 1906 in Illinois.

On Dec. 24, 1927, she married Lester Cowan, who preceded her in death Jan. 12, 1973.

Survivors include one son, Thomas L. Cowan of Rochester, Mich.; one daughter, Wilma Marie Boone of Clio, Mich.; four brothers, Henry Yager of Madison Heights, Mich., Morris Yager of Shreveport, La., Eugene Yager of Dexter and Lawrence Yager of Frisco, Colo.; two sisters, Dorothy Darrell of Kirkwood and Bertha Hartline of Dexter; and five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. Friday at Rainey Funeral Home, where services are scheduled Saturday. The Rev. Orville Myers will officiate.

Burial will be in Dexter Cemetery.

ELISHA AUSTIN

DEXTER — Elisha Austin, 57, died Monday at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

He was born March 6, 1917 at Bobo, Miss.

Survivors include his widow, Josephine Badgett Austin; one son, Jessie James Austin of Dexter; one daughter, Glossie Austin of Dexter; three brothers, Elic Austin of Kansas City and Elijah and George Austin of Palm Beach, Fla.; six sisters, Lucille Williams and Minnie Patterson of Essex, Lee Emma Armstead of Olive Branch, Miss., Ruby Potts of Palm Beach, Sallie Johnson of Hines City, Fla., and Ivory People of Chicago.

Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Rainey Funeral Home.

Services are scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday in the New Mount Zion Church with the Rev. Frenchie Brown officiating.

Burial will be in Frogwater Cemetery near Malden.

BUREN G. DYE

GIDEON — Buren G. Dye, 67, died of a heart attack Wednesday at his home.

He is survived by his widow, Eva; four sons, Ben, Vernon, Kenneth and Jackie; one daughter, Wanda Lawrence; one sister, Savanna Campbell; and seven grandchildren.

Friends may call after 6 p.m. today at Russell Mortuary, where arrangements are incomplete.

Firemen called

The fire department answered calls to two fires Wednesday, neither of which resulted in damage, according to Fire Chief Larry Linnemeyer.

The first call, received at 4:52 p.m., was to the Associated Natural Gas Co. office, 112 S. New Madrid St., for an electrical fire in a light ballast.

A grease fire at the Luber building, 207 E. Center St., was reported at 11:25 p.m., but the fire had already been extinguished when the fire department arrived.

injuries in a two-car accident at 7:50 a.m. today on Highway 61 three miles north of New Madrid.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Patrick Robertson, 22, of New Madrid attempted to pass another vehicle and collided with a southbound car driven by Glenda Dirickson, 33, of Lilbourn.

Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

World News In Brief

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — President Ford's address to the 29th General Assembly stirred only timid and guarded hope among proponents of international action to deal with staggering world food problems. The President promised the assembly that the United States would spend more on food shipments to needy countries and increase technical aid to their food production programs. He also said the U.S. government is ready to negotiate a world food reserve plan. But he pointed out that the problems of food shortages, oil prices and runaway inflation are all related and said a global strategy for food and energy is urgently required.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Emmet James Kay, the last known American prisoner of war in Indochina, said he made statements in favor of the Communist Pathet Lao because he was upset about the Watergate scandal. "I am a loyal American," the 47-year-old commercial pilot told a news conference. "... I must admit I was quite upset during the Watergate days about the United States." Kay was freed in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, after 16 months in captivity.

LONDON (AP) — Political observers predicted another close race as the three-week campaign opened for the national election Oct. 10. Ladbroke's, one of Britain's leading bookmakers, made Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party a 3-to-2 favorite to win the largest number of seats in the House of Commons. But it also quoted the equivalent of 5-to-3 odds that it would fall short of a majority, as it did in the February election. The latest Gallup poll, published in the Daily Telegraph, gave the Laborites 42 per cent of the vote; the Conservatives 34; Liberals 20.5 and others 3.5.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Palestine guerrillas were hosts to the Japanese Red Army terrorists who held 11 persons hostage in the French embassy in the Netherlands. The Syrian government said the four terrorists — three who invaded the embassy in The Hague last Friday and a fourth they had freed from a French jail — would remain in the custody of the Palestine Liberation Organization until they decided where they wanted to go next. The Syrians promised the Japanese safe conduct to the country of their choice in negotiations after they were allowed to land in Damascus Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the nation's largest teacher organization has warned that crime, welfare and unemployment will shoot up if "education is kept hostage" in the fight against inflation. James A. Harris, head of the National Education Association, was among 180 delegates to a two-day, economic mini-summit conference at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, a prelude to the national summit conference Sept. 27-28.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Separated by surgery which took 6 1/2 hours, Siamese twin girls from the Dominican Republic slept in separate cribs for the first time in their 13 months of life. "I know of no reason why they won't live," Dr. C. Everett Koop said after the long operation by 23 surgeons and nurses at Children's Hospital. "They were two healthy little girls together. We have every reason to believe they'll be two healthy little girls apart," said Koop, who headed the surgical team. Clara and Altagracia Rodriguez were given their own complete sets of internal organs during the surgical operation.

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of pounds of food stockpiled in American fallout shelters during the 1960s are being sent abroad to aid famine stricken nations. "Rather than let the stuff go rancid in the shelters, the thing to do is try to feed somebody with it," says John L. Padgett, Louisiana's deputy director of civil defense. An Associated Press survey shows at least 30 states and 40 communities have donated or plan to donate a percentage of the stockpiled food to hungry nations.

CHICAGO (AP) — A Catholic priest hears confessions from some of the kitchen help while performing his duties as a chef in a Chicago restaurant. The Rev. Richard Bernowski, 33, is the night chef overseeing the large bill-of-fare at Sage's East on the Near North Side, one of Chicago's posh eateries. In the day he teaches history at St. Franci Theological Seminary. He turns the salary from his hobby as a chef to his religious order, the Holy Catholic Church, Malabar Rite.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's health has been injected into the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial for the first time. Attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman asked for a 60-to-90-day delay in the trial, set to begin Oct. 1. They said it will take at least that long for Nixon to recover sufficiently from mental depression and phlebitis in his left leg to appear as a defense witness.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal crime-fighting agency has quietly hired its former boss as a $135-a-day consultant for up to three months despite his resignation in a political dispute last June. Donald E. Santarelli remains on the payroll of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration as a "special government employe," LEAA and Justice Department officials acknowledged in response to questions. On June 1, Santarelli resigned as head of the agency after suggesting publicly that Richard M. Nixon should quit the presidency because of the Watergate scandal.

HOBART, Ind. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says that if he decides to run for president he will answer any questions raised about Chappaquiddick.

The Massachusetts Democrat, who was here Wednesday for a $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner, said he would "respond to questions and do the best I could" on the controversy surrounding the accident. Mary Jo Kopechne drowned when a car driven by Kennedy plunged off a bridge into deep water off Chappaquiddick Island in July of 1969.

He said, "I have indicated it was a very deep personal tragedy. I have accepted full responsibility for it and full regret for the incident. I would respond to any questions."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is ready to join the special Watergate prosecutor and a House subcommittee in efforts to expand access to former President Richard M. Nixon's tapes and documents. The Senate Government Operations Committee was scheduled to vote on a resolution calling on President Ford to make public all parts of the tapes dealing with Watergate.

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — Poor Evel Knievel. He says his abortive Snake River Canyon jump will bring him only something less than $3 million, only one-third the amount he had said he would earn.

But he's not complaining. "What the hell. I'm still alive. I have the blue Montana sky. What do I need all that money for?" said Knievel as he relaxed in his hometown Wednesday.

A spokesman for Top Rank Inc., the firm that promoted the closed-circuit telecast of the jump, confirmed earnings hadn't approached the hoped for millions.

"Never in our wildest dreams did we think so few people would watch the event. We were very, very disappointed by ticket sales," said Top Rank's Robert Arum. He said he doesn't expect to make much more than $150,000 after expenses.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Kung Fu" television series star David Carradine has been charged with wrecking furniture and breaking windows in a neighbor's home, authorities say.

Police said the 37-year-old son of actor John Carradine was arrested on Monday and released on $1,000 bond in connection with the incident in a house near his Hollywood home.

He was to be arraigned Sept. 20 on one misdemeanor count each of burglary, malicious mischief and unauthorized entry of private property, a city attorney's spokesman said.

Carradine, who could be sentenced to a maximum of two years in jail and a $1,000 fine, wasn't available for comment immediately.

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI says "saints, strong men" are needed to fight the permissiveness that is pervading the church "like a deadly epidemic."

His speech Wednesday was the second time in eight days he has spoken pessimistically about the state of the church as preparations continue for the fourth World Synod of Bishops starting Sept. 27.

In his last speech before leaving his summer residence to return to the Vatican, Pope Paul told 2,000 visitors here:

"Both individually and collectively, the phenomena of weakness, posing, spiritual debility and cowardice are spreading today more than ever like a deadly epidemic among people at all levels."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Power Commission Chairman John N. Nassikas faces House hearings on allegations the FPC allowed overcharging for natural gas. Nassikas said that the FPC had legal authority for its gas-pricing actions, contrary to the view of the General Accounting Office, but he admitted that other criticisms in a GAO report last Friday were accurate. He also said the FPC was investigating 19 of its officials for possible conflicts of interest and would refer any apparently serious cases to the Justice Department.

Eagleton to attend rally

POPLAR BLUFF — Sen Thomas Eagleton is scheduled to spend Sept. 27 and 28 in Poplar Bluff in conjunction with the Truman Day Rally, a spokesman for the rally organizing committee confirmed Wednesday.

Eagleton, who will be opposed in November by former Republican Congressman Tom Curtis, will attend the Friday evening banquet at which Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be the principal speaker. The banquet will be at 7 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Ealgeton will stay in Poplar Bluff Saturday to campaign on his own behalf.

Other well-known Democrats who have confirmed plans to attend the rally are former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Charleston, State Democratic Chairman James Spain of Bloomfield and 10th District Rep. Bill Burlison of Cape Girardeau.

Burlison signs practices code

WASHINGTON — Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison signed the Code of Fair Campaign Practices Wednesday and pledged that his campaign to represent the people of the 10th District will follow the principles of decency and honesty in politics.

"My campaign will be based upon the issues and will be conducted in the best American tradition of fair play," Burlison said. "I call upon my opponent to join me in signing the Code of Fair Campaign Practices and to wage a similar high-level campaign."

The code is distributed by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, a non-partisan, non-profit organization. Among its members have been former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower. The committee has been called "the conscience of American politics."

The code condemns the use of personal vilification, character defamation or scurrilous attacks on any candidate. It also condemns the use of campaign material which misrepresents or distorts the facts and condemns any appeal to prejudice based on race, creed or national origin.

Roll call vote on busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 45-42 roll call by which the Senate voted Tuesday for an amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to bar use of funds in the appropriations bill for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for school busing to achieve racial desegregation included:

Republicans for the amendment: Dole, Kan.

Democrats against: Eagleton and Symington, Mo.

Republicans against: Pearson, Kan.

Proposed budget cuts to be aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will get a $20 billion package of proposed reductions and postponements of spending by the end of this week and an additional $4 billion package within the next few days, Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said today.

Ash told the new House Budget Committee "you will have plenty of work to do."

He did not specify the items President Ford will propose for cancelled or postponed funding, although he did say the two packages would embrace about 100 separate items.

The new budget law, which also created the committee, specifies that the President may not on his own authority refuse to spend money appropriated by Congress. He must file a report recommending cut offs and can temporarily halt spending, but unless Congress backs his recommendation within 45 days, the funds are released.

When the President merely proposes to postpone spending, the postponement holds unless Congress vetoes it.

Hewing close to the administration line that reductions in government spending are a major element in fighting inflation, Ash told the committee there is only about $15 billion in the $305 billion spending budget that is fully controllable and subject to reduction.

Accordingly, he said, no one big cut can be made and economies must be sought all along the line.

Several committee members pressed Ash for instances to back what the administration contends are threats to the budget because of high spending by Congress.

He contended there have been congressional reductions in estimates of amounts that would be spent under existing programs, but at the same time new programs would be written that would require spending — and therefore supplemental appropriations later.

The pending trade bill, Ash said, carries a provision for readjustment benefits to U.S. workers disadvantaged by imports. He said this could cost $600 million in a year.

Several more hundreds of millions of dollars spending over the budget might result from pending veterans education legislation, he added.

Ash said that action now under way on the defense appropriations bill would appear to reduce spending $1.7 billion below the budget.

"Further cuts in defense spending are unwarranted ...," Ash said.

Earlier, in an interview, Ash said President Ford wants "a majority view" from Congress on where the budget ax should fall.
